The action, it is stated, is in the interest of her 12-year-old son, Russell William Thaw. The petition sets forth that Thaw should not be released, as he is mentally unfit and will, if released, "dissipate his own estate and the life interest in his father's estate." Thaw's estate is estimated to be worth about $1,000,000.

FILES ANSWER TO INDICTMENT

Authority of Senate to Ask Him Questions Attacked by
Harry F. Sinclair

Says Investigators Without Power—Evidence Reserved
For Courts

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The authority of the senate to ask him the questions which resulted in contempt proceedings against him, was attacked by Harry F. Sinclair today in a demurrer filed here in answer to his contempt indictment.

The demurrer followed in the main the legal contentions advanced by the Sinclair lawyers when the oil magnate and lessee of Teia Pot Dome last appeared before the senate oil committee and refused to reply to a long string of questions on the ground that the investigators were without authority and that his evidence should be reserved for the courts.

Sinclair pleaded not guilty to the contempt charge immediately after the indictment was returned two weeks ago. The proceedings are entirely separate from the grand jury investigation of the naval oil leasing program itself, which will begin before another grand jury here next week.

Investigation to Go On

There are still many leads to be developed in the senate inquiry into the administration of the department of justice and the investigation will continue for at least six weeks "despite the opposition confronting the committee," Senator Wheeler declared today.

"The ultimate results of the committee's course," the senator said, "will depend on the attitude of the new attorney general toward a reorganization of the department."

EX-GOV. DENEEN INCREASES LEAD

CHICAGO, April 12 (By the Associated Press).—Former Governor Chas. S. Deneen's lead over Senator Medill McCormick, for the republican senatorial nomination in Tuesday's Illinois primary today, was increased to 4069 on complete unofficial returns with 13 Cook county (Chicago) precincts missing.

The 13 missing precincts of Cook county are among the country towns outside Chicago and their returns will not be available until the official county canvass.

The unofficial returns represent 573 out of 544 precincts in the state.

City Council President Plans
Personal Conference With Civil Service Commission

Matter of $50,000 Appropriation for Relief of Unemployment Still Undecided

If time is available next Monday, City Council President James J. Gallagher will go to the civil service commission at the state house in Boston and inquire why the city has received no reply from its request for a conference with some member of the commission or a representative on the matter of civil service regulations in connection with a proposed appropriation of $50,000 for the relief of local unemployment.

President Gallagher goes to Cambridge on Monday to report for jury duty, but if he has opportunity in the afternoon will make it a point to call upon the commissioner and attempt to find out what the city may expect from the commission in the matter.

The $50,000 appropriation order was discussed last week at a conference between the board of public service and the finance committee of the city council and at that time it was voted to request the civil service commission to send a member or representative to Lowell for further conference on the question. This conference particularly was for the purpose of ascertaining whether the commission would let down its regulations as to the employment of temporary laborers during the emergency.

The civil service commissioner, by Clerk Stephen Flynn, but to date no reply has been received.

AS TO RADIO SETS AT ISOLATION HOSPITAL

Mayor Donovan takes exception to a statement made by Dr. Smith, superintendent of the isolation hospital, to the effect that any request or estimate for the installation of radio sets at the hospital, appeared in the budget submitted for the maintenance of the institution.

The doctor stated in his testimony before the investigating committee, that he had included the sum of $500 in his budget for this purpose, but that "the item was eliminated under the retrenchment program of the administration." While the mayor does not say whether he would or would not have approved such an item, he objects to the statement made by the doctor as misleading, inasmuch as no mention of radio appeared in the budget. An examination of the hospital budget does not show any item or mention of radio sets.

In explanation of the matter today, Dr. Smith said he had recommended the expenditure of $500 for a radio set to the board of health when he submitted his budget, but the board disallowed it and did not include the item in the hospital estimates when they were submitted to the budget and audit commission.

Wheeler Says Challenge to Be Brought Before Full Membership of Senate

Injunction Issued by Judge
Who Formerly Was Partner of Harry Daugherty

CHICAGO, April 12.—Senator Wheeler of Montana, a central figure in the Daugherty investigation, declared today that Mal S. Daugherty, brother of the former attorney general, would be cited for contempt before the senate.

Commenting on the resolution of a sub-committee's visit to Washington courthouse, Ohio, yesterday to take further testimony in the Daugherty case, Mr. Wheeler declared that the challenge to the "investigational authority" would be brought before the full membership of the senate.

The restraining injunction issued in Ohio against the sub-committee blocking its attempted examination of the books and files of the Midland National bank was granted by a probate judge who formerly was a law partner of Harry Daugherty, Senator Wheeler said.

Injunction Blocks Probe

WASHINGTON, April 12. The senate Daugherty investigation was again confined to Washington today after the blocking by injunction proceedings of the attempt yesterday at Washington Courthouse, Ohio, by Chairman Brookhart and Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, to examine the records of the Midland National bank, of which M. S. Daugherty, brother of the former attorney general, is president.

Chairman Brookhart returned to Washington where yesterday's hearing was conducted by Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, but Senator Wheeler, the committee prosecutor, went to Chicago to make an address. Contempt proposals, growing out of the challenge of the committee's authority at Washington Courthouse, which followed the banker's refusal to permit a general investigation of the Midland bank's accounts by an agent of the committee and, subsequently, to respond to a subpoena for his personal appearance, are expected to be acted upon without delay.

SEVEN BIDS RECEIVED ON NEW MOTOR FIRE APPARATUS

Triple Combination Proposals Submitted to City Purchasing Agent By Federal, 4-Wheel-Drive, White, American-LaFrance, Stutz and Ahrens-Fox Companies

Seven bids were received by City Purchasing Agent Edward J. Donnelly today, on requisitions for the purchase of two triple combination motor pumping engines for the fire department. The seven bids covered six types of machines and the bidding was decidedly close. Machines upon which proposals were submitted included the White, Federal, Four-Wheel-Drive, Stutz, American-LaFrance and Ahrens-Fox and the bids were as follows:

Federal, $9000 each.
Four-Wheel-Drive, $9500 for one; $18,750 for two.
Stutz, $20,000 for two.
American-LaFrance, $10,250 each.
White (O. P. Kress), $10,500 each.
White, (M. J. McCann), $21,000 for two.
Ahrens-Fox, $10,750 each.
Upon the bids received, the Federal proposal is the lowest and the Ahrens-Fox is high. No immediate action on awards will be taken. The fire department appropriation allows $18,500 for the purchase of two triple combinations, one of which will be stationed at the Fourth Street house and the other at the new house in the Oaklands. No mention as to the time of delivery is made in any of the bids, but as a rule no company will forward a machine within a period of 60 days from time of contract.

Bids also were received by the purchasing agent today on two new one-ton trucks for the water works department and six motorcycles for the fire department.

The truck proposals follow:
Lowell Motor Mart (Graham truck) —$1450, $1500 including allowances on two old trucks.
P. E. McQuade (Reo truck) —$1510, $1535, $1570, with $600 allowance.
Church Street Automobile association (International truck) —$2700 net.
George W. Morrison (Thomas truck) —$1745, $1795, with allowances of $175 and $550; U. S. Highway special truck, $1640, $1695 with allowances.
Lowell Buick Co. (G.M.C. truck) —$3600 net.
Ralph H. Collins (Federal truck) —$3400 net.

Two bids on the six motorcycles were received as follows:
Edward J. Bellerose (Harley-Davidson) —$1801.96 net; George H. Bachelor (Indian), $1875 net.

NANTASKET, April 12.—With drawn revolvers, Chief of Police Frank M. Reynolds and five other officers held up and confiscated four trucks and a touring car loaded with 1500 gallons of grain alcohol here today. The contraband was thought to have been landed by run runners at Pemberton.

Charles Welch of Hull, Michael Letto of Wallham, Orville Eldridge of Waltham, Stanislaus Broizelle of Lowell and James Fiore, of Boston, the drivers, were arrested and taken to Abington for arraignment. There Judge Kelley fined them $50 each for unlawful exposure of liquor.

100,000 LOCKED OUT Action Follows Refusal of Striking Shipyard Workers at Southampton to Return

LONDON, April 12. (By the Associated Press).—About 100,000 shipyard workers throughout Great Britain are locked out today in consequence of the failure of the striking members of their unions in Southampton to resume work yesterday in conformity with the ultimatum of the shipbuilding employers' federation.

The lockout is inoperative only at Southampton, where the yards are being kept open for the return of those men willing to go back to work. Whenever the Southampton members of any of the 15 unions involved resume labor, the lockout against their fellow members in other yards will be withdrawn, the employers declare. The union officials appealed to the owners last night to defer the measure, but the employers contended they had no alternative.

Liner in Mid-Channel

CHERBOURG, April 12.—The liner Mauretania, being brought here for repair in consequence of the British shipyard lockout, was still in mid-channel late this morning, although due here at midnight. The vessel, which left Southampton yesterday morning, in tow, is proceeding at only one and a half knots, and is being buffeted by tempestuous west winds.

GREEK OFFICERS ARE ARRESTED

18 Ranking Military and Naval Officers Held by Order of the Government

Suspected of Complicity in Projected Royalist Outbreak in Athens

ATHENS, April 12 (By the Associated Press).—Eighteen ranking military and naval officers suspected of complicity in a projected royalist outbreak have been arrested by order of the government, it became known today. Among those taken into custody were Gen. Leonardopoulos, leader of the last counter-revolution, and Gen. Constantinopoulos.

Gen. Metaxas, royalist leader, protested to Premier Panagiotas against the arrests. The premier replied that the government was determined to crush any attempt at disorders, but he promised to examine the cases of those arrested and see that no injustice was done.

An announcement by the minister of the interior says the government ascertained that considerable quantities of revolvers and cartridges had recently been brought into Athens by reactionaries. The arms had been confiscated and the leaders of the projected movement, who obviously intended that there should be an outbreak after the plebiscite to decide the fate of the dynasty, had been arrested.

CALLS ON SENATE TO MAINTAIN CONSTITUTIONAL AND LEGAL RIGHTS

Pres. Coolidge Says Employment of Heney as Prosecutor is in Conflict With Law—May Throw Government Into Disorder

WASHINGTON, April 11.—President Coolidge in a message to the senate today advised that body to maintain its "constitutional and legal rights" in conducting investigations.

The message, couched in direct language, was occasioned by the action of the senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau in employing Francis J. Heney of California, as special prosecutor at the instance of Senator Coughens, Michigan, a republican member of the committee.

The president supplemented his message with a letter from Secretary Mellon, in which Mr. Mellon declared that should "unnecessary interference" with the proper exercise of his duty be continued, "neither I nor any other man of character, can longer take responsibility for the treasury."

Employment of Heney was declared by the president to be in conflict with law and a procedure likely to throw the government into disorder.

"It is time that we return to a government under and in accordance with the usual forms of the law of the land," the president said. "The state of the union requires the immediate adoption of such a course."

GOVERNMENT RUN LIKE THREE-RING CIRCUS

ST. LOUIS, April 11.—That the government is being conducted as a sort of three-ring circus, with the lawmakers too busy getting on the front pages of newspapers and satisfying personal ambitions to attend to legislation, while business suffers, was the statement last night of William C. Marvin, New York attorney, and president of the American Russian chamber of commerce.

Marvin, while addressing delegates to the one-day central Mississippi Valley trade conference, announced that he and Colonel W. N. Haskell, former director of the American Relief Administration in Russia, would leave for Russia in the summer to conclude private contracts for the exportation of the resources of that nation, "before every other country in the world beats the United States to it."

"We shall attempt to obtain by private methods what our government should obtain by treaty," he said.

FIND BODY OF BLAIR IN PIT

Covered With Stones and Tin Cans—Bound With Wire

Mrs. Johanna Tell Confessed to Murder and Told Officials Where to Find Body

KILLINGWORTH, Conn., April 11.—The body of Charles F. Blair, about 60, farmer, whom Mrs. Johanna Tell, his housekeeper, told the police she had killed, was found this noon in a fertilizer pit about 160 feet from the farmhouse, by two state police officers who did the digging.

The body was covered with heavy stones and tin cans. When it was exhumed it was found to have been bound with wire which apparently had been taken from a window shade roller spring. The man's throat had been cut almost entirely across.

The body was clothed in brown trousers and a gray shirt. There were no shoes on the feet. The body had been placed face downward.

The fertilizer pit was dug several days ago by Blair, who had intended to fill it with fertilizer and refuse to decay in readiness for his spring planting.

The pit was under an apple tree and the earth over the pit had been smoothed off. The state officers, with a number of officials and officers from the Bronx, had searched the farm and it was not until 11:30 a.m. that decision was made to dig into the place which looked as if a hole had been filled in recently.

State Officers Michael Smith and Max Christensen of Middletown, did the digging. In about half an hour they came upon the body after removing an accumulation of heavy stones.

The body was cleared of the earth and tin cans and other rubbish upon it and then lifted out and laid upon the ground. Dr. D. A. Fox, the medical examiner, was at once notified.

The officers were of the opinion that Mrs. Tell must be strong, as Blair was a man weighing probably 250 pounds and it must have been quite a burden to get the body from the house to the pit.

The farm is the same one which in 1895 Bertram Hotchkiss was murdered. Someone shot at him through a window. Close by the Blair house is the Goodell house, the birthplace of George Goodell, who was murdered 20 years ago by a man named Daley, who later was hanged for the crime.

Blair, it appears, from inquiry today in town, was not well known. No one seemed to know much about his affairs. It was known that he had a housekeeper, a woman about 22 years of age who has a daughter about 14.

200 CASES OF LIQUOR SEIZED
GLOUCESTER, April 11.—Two hundred cases of assorted liquors were seized by the police today on Annisquam island, in the Annisquam river. Patrolmen on watch during the night saw signals flashed from two dories to the shore, but by the time they reached the island the men they sought had escaped, leaving the liquor behind them. The contraband was thought to have come from the "Rum row" off Cape Ann.

PROPOSALS TO BAR JAPANESE

Take Up Immigration Proposals Which Would, In Effect, Exclude Japanese

WASHINGTON, April 12.—An international issue of grave importance confronted both the senate and house today when they took up with expectations of action before adjournment, the pending immigration proposals which would, in effect, exclude Japanese from the United States.

The house, after disposing of minor amendments to the Johnson bill at a night session, had before it the vigorously contested quota and Japanese exclusion bills. The senate resumed consideration of amendments to its immigration measure having a similar purpose with reference to admission of Japanese.

Japan's formal protest against its exclusion from the list of nations allotted immigration quotas overshadowed the discussion, having loomed yesterday in the note from Ambassador Hanihara, warning of "grave consequences" enactment of the Japanese exclusion emergency legislation. Japan's protest, which was made public yesterday, setting forth concretely for the first time the terms of the gentlemen's agreement of 1907.

VOTE $2,000,000 FUND

To Pay Indemnities to Farmers for Stock Killed in Attempt to Check Disease

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 12.—Gov. Richardson and the state board of conservation yesterday voted to create a $2,000,000 emergency fund to pay indemnities to farmers and stockmen for stock killed in an attempt to check the foot and mouth disease, and plans for demanding a special session of the legislature to provide measures for combating the malady were abandoned.

Another outbreak in San Fernando valley brought to mind the number of communities quarantined because of the disease.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE

Took 35 Ballots in Futile Attempt to Reach Verdict in McCray Trial

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 12.—An agreement of the jury and its discharge yesterday marked the end of the trial here of Governor McCray, charged in a county grand jury indictment with embezzlement of $155,000 from the state board of agriculture. Thirty-five ballots were taken by the jury, which deliberated more than 27 hours, the vote on the last ballot being eight for conviction and four for acquittal.

The governor was tried on the first of 15 indictments returned by the grand jury. Three of the indictments were ruled out by the court. Of those remaining one will be selected on which to try the governor later.

The ending of the trial, which had been in progress since March 17, closed but one chapter of a volume of litigation against McCray, which developed after his financial collapse some time ago and is pending in various courts.

On April 21, he will go on trial in federal court here on charges of conspiracy to violate the national banking laws and using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud.

A petition to have McCray declared a bankrupt, which is being opposed by him, is pending in federal court.

NO HONORARY COLONELS IN U. S. ARMY

WASHINGTON, April 12.—There will be no "honorary colonels" in the United States army. Any such designation has been held to be unauthorized by army regulations and the war department has declared against the creation at this time of such a grade in the commissioned ranks.

Actresses and other persons now holding designations of honorary colonels bestowed by regimental organizations, formally or informally, are not to be recognized and the practice is to be terminated forthwith.

ARBOR DAY ON APRIL 26 65,000 MINERS IDLE
Gov. Cox Issues Proclamation Out of Work as Result of Inability to Reach Agreement on Wage Scale

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, April 12.—Saturday, April 26, was designated by Gov. Cox today as Arbor day, while the week beginning Monday, April 21, the governor has decided shall be observed as Forest Protection week.

The governor's proclamation is as follows:

"Whether dwelling in urban or rural communities, all of our citizens have a vital concern in conserving our forests and in protecting them from needless destruction. We need wood for shelter and heat. We need forests to stabilize the flow of streams which not only turn wheels of industry, but bring pure drinking water to our cities. We need the cool and quiet of groves where we may seek rest from confusion and turmoil, and we need forest animals which have shown their friendship and value to men.

"The commonwealth is endeavoring to stimulate the planting and growing of trees. More than 100,000 acres of waste land in Massachusetts are now being reclaimed and planted with forest trees. The commonwealth also has 20,000,000 forest trees in nurseries, to be furnished cities and towns free of cost for town forests. Already 45 municipal forests have been established here, with forests that many other cities and towns will help in this work of conservation. Although progress has been made, the practical work of conserving our forests must be extended, and it must have the intelligent and sympathetic support of our people. Fire waste is not less than wanton destruction must be eliminated, for each year large tracts of timber are devastated by forest fires caused by carelessness of those who frequent the woods.

"Therefore, in obedience to the law of the commonwealth, I designate Saturday, the 26th day of April, as Arbor and Bird day, and the week beginning Monday, April 21, as Forest Protection week, and recommend that wherever possible each citizen plant a tree or shrub, and in any event give consideration to the vital need of forest conservation and protection.

Given at the executive chamber, in Boston, this eighth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-eighth.

On the Bill at B. F. Keith's Next Week

NORMA LEYLAND

Jack Ingalls and Gene Winchester will appear at the B. F. Keith theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening, with their decidedly snappy conversational act. Jack Adams and Thompson Sisters will also be retained for the day. For the rest, the bill will be made up of entirely new acts, with Shepard & Ott, comedians, holding down a choice spot in the lineup. Gordon & Spain are mixers of music and good comedy, and Helen Vincent, singer and comedienne, and Collins & Burke, purveyors of good fun, will also be presented. The picture feature is "Free Air."

Billy Hallen, who sings, talks and continues to prattle even while the orchestra pursues the even tenor of its way, will be the coming week's headline feature. He is a monologist who has hit upon the things to which we all take a fancy, and he sweeps his audience along with him.

Dressed in the clothing of yesterday, Eugene Emmett, who is often referred to as "America's Sweetest Singer," will appear in "The Family Revue." His voice is unusually good. It seems to have a direct connection with the heart. There are pathos, humor and sentiment in what he offers.

"Fond Recollections" is the title of the skill which Thomas J. Ryan & Co.

MISS BERTIE BRAGGOTTI

ANNUAL GUILD BALL AT THE AUDITORIUM

All who attended the Guild ball in the Auditorium last year will remember with pleasure the delightful dancing of the Braggotti sisters of Boston.

This year Miss Bertie Braggotti, admittedly one of the best platinas dancers in the country will give one or two solo dances at the coming guild ball to be held in the Auditorium, April 22d.

She will be assisted by five young women sent from Penikese school who are to give a dance called "Searing." This dance will have its premier appearance in Lowell and was designed to be danced on the estate of Lars Anderson the latter part of May.

Because the Auditorium is peculiarly adapted for this sort of thing it was possible to make arrangements for its first appearance here. These attractions alone should be well worth the price of admission.

Attractions at Merrimack Square Theatre

JAMES MORRISON, HOUSE PETERS AND JOHN SAINTPOLIS IN "HOLD TO ANSWER"

Once more the Merrimack Square theatre comes to the front with one of the best programs of photoplay features shown in New England for months. The array of attractions for the first four days of the coming week will equal that of any movie house in this section of the country.

For a starter there'll be "Held to Answer," a Metro whirlwind with House Peters and Grace Carlyle. The production is taken from Peter Clark MacFarlane's most thrilling action story, depicting a fighting parson's battle with a siren actress. It has been rightly called a mighty story of spiritual drama and intense passion.

The second feature will be "Sea Raiders," a story of action on the deep, with an all-star cast of well known screen players. A comedy, "Always Late," the Boston Post reel, "The New England Home," and the latest International News will round out the bill.

A story decidedly out of the ordinary is dramatically told in "Held to Answer."

Peter Clark MacFarlane, one of the best liked authors of the day, has never written anything more thrilling or exciting than this drama of a fighting minister, an actress and the criminal courts. He has taken as his central character a young actor who deserts the stage to preach the word of God and serve humanity in a small western city. An actress friend follows him and, through jealousy, manages to have him accused of theft.

Mr. MacFarlane has woven a tale that holds one spellbound. It is no wonder that the novel enjoyed the largest sale of any book ever published in America.

House Peters enacts the role of the fighting minister who conducts his own defense when called into court to answer the charge of theft. The important role of the actress is played by Grace Carlyle who has seldom, if ever, been provided with a part more suitable to her talents.

James Morrison, one of the best liked juveniles on the screen, has the role of a young man who falls under the spell of the actress even to the extent of robbing his employers to obtain funds with which to entertain her. Evelyn Brent, the captivating English star, is seen as the heroine who falls in love with the minister and upholds him until he is vindicated. Others who enact the principal roles include "Bull" Montana, by a special arrangement with Hunt Stevenson; Lydia Knott and John Saintpolis.

The Merrimack Square theatre management announces the engagement of Lillian Gish in the noted photoplay classic, "The White Sister," beginning Easter Sunday, April 20.

Splendid Picture Offerings at The Rialto

SHIRLEY MASON IN "SOUTH SEA LOVE"

Roy Stewart, co-starred with Kathleen Kirkham in "One-Eighth Apache," a Peter H. Kyne Red Book story, is a remarkably versatile artist who, in his noteworthy screen career, has had a wide diversity of roles. But it is safe to assert that never before has he been seen to greater advantage than as "Brant Murdoch," the husky young easterner, whose gameness and hardihood win for him the admiration and support of all with whom he comes in contact. A versatile player was needed to capably handle the role of Brant Murdoch, for the action of the storm makes strong demands upon even Mr. Stewart's brilliant artistry. He is first seen at his father's ranch, lives now on his tremendous ranch in the western oil lands, has sent his son, Brant, east to be educated. Brant was raised in an atmosphere of luxury, acid dinner plate, and fine man-o-war perfume. Naturally, when, for the first time, he is sent into contact with the west—and all that the name implies—the contrast is rather startling. How it all works out—how he finds the girl of his heart only to lose and find her again—how villainy is punished and how virtue earns its just reward, is all shown in a splendid photoplay to which the art of Roy Stewart adds even greater lustre.

Shirley Mason, diminutive Fox star, has a splendid role in "South Sea Love," which is also on the program. Of all locations to inspire stories of romance and action, none is the equal of the tropics—anywhere below the mythical line that divides the globe. The story deals with the ferocious love of true love runs no smoother behind the scene of the tropics, than it does in the hard-frozen north. But, eventually, of course, the typhoon dies and she comes into a beautiful love as tranquil and untroubled as the Pacific off Wakeke beach.

MISS DESMONDE HERE

Mr. MacLeod and Miss Andrews Off for Bethlehem—Mr. Rowe Here

Miss Lillian Desmond, formerly leading woman of the Luttringer Lowell Opera House company, which went from this city to Manchester following the disastrous fire a few months ago, was a Lowell visitor yesterday. Miss Desmond, who made such a great hit in "Little Old New York" and increased her personal prestige and popularity in the plays which followed, has bought a new roadster and she drove down for the afternoon. The Luttringer players have no Friday matinee. The visit was short, as she was obliged to return early in order to participate in the evening performance there at the Park theatre. Accompanying Miss Desmond were John Rowe, popular juvenile man, and J. Dallas Hammond, who joined the local unit just after the fire and participated in "The Divorce Question," given at the Auditorium as a farewell performance.

To Head Own Company
Miss Desmond, who is leading the Manchester unit, said today that the Luttringer players will rest during Holy week, reopening with "The Alarm Clock." She further said that the company expects to remain in Manchester until about June 1. At that time she will head her own company again in summer stock at Youngstown, O. Mr. Luttringer on Easter Monday opens another unit at Bethlehem, Pa., with his wife, Miss Ann Kingsley, as leading woman.

H. H. Fish, scenic artist for Mr. Luttringer, is in addition to his other duties, acting as company manager at Manchester, having succeeded Langdon R. Barclay, who is operating the Academy theatre here as a personal venture. Miss Desmond, with Messrs. Rowe and Hammond, visited the Academy yesterday afternoon and saw most of the performance of "Her Unborn Child," which closes tonight.

John Rowe To Test Here
Miss Desmond said that Miss Edna Earl Andrews, second woman of the old Opera House company, and Malcolm MacLeod, general business man, will go to Bethlehem with the new unit. William Courteen, leading man, stays with the Manchester unit, which today closes until Easter Saturday. The present play of the Manchester unit is "The Fighting Parson," which was shown here under the title of "Wild Oats Lane," with Mr. MacLeod in the leading role as "Father Joe."

John Rowe, who starred last week with Miss Desmond in "Irene," will spend his Holy Week vacation in Lowell. The MacLeods and Miss Andrews and her mother will go to Bethlehem, while Miss Desmond is planning a trip to New York and the purchase of more clothes for her wardrobe.

ACADEMY THEATRE
The final performance of "Her Unborn Child" will be given by the Barclay stock players at the Academy theatre tonight. Phone 7097 now to reserve any of the few choice seats still obtainable.

Feature at Strand Beginning Sunday

EVELYN BRENT AND MONTE BLUE IN "LOVING LIES"

Those who think that working before the camera is mostly play, had better have a word with Monte Blue. He with Evelyn Brent and Joan Lowell, is featured in "Loving Lies," an adaptation from Peter B. Kyne's successful novel, "The Harbor Bar," which will be featured on The Strand program for four days, starting with matinee on Sunday. Monte Blue knows better than ever before just how much work a featured star goes through during the course of a picture. In making extra scenes at Laguna beach, California, and some miles off the rocky coast. Blue, who portrays the role of Captain Dan Stover of the tug "Chief," had to guide it through one of the roughest storms seen off the California coast in years, and after a tiring day on the water, had to spend a second day and a good portion of the night climbing a high cliff, firing a life line to a sinking vessel which was slowly being battered to pieces on the rocks and then in pulling Evelyn Brent to shore. To get to shore from his tug, Mr. Brent had to row in a small boat more than a mile over a choppy sea, arriving at the bottom of the cliff with a boat half filled with water. Blue was very tired before the climb up the cliff started. These are but a small part of the whole action recorded by the star in this semi-vaudeville story in which action, thrills, tense scenes and dramatic art is carefully and cleverly reflected.

"Loving Lies" is woven about the actions of Captain Dan, whose sense of duty towards his wife brings on him trouble that threatens to disrupt his own domestic happiness and contentment. It is only after he has been given a severe test and comes through triumphant, does he see what real danger was his—and all because of a few malicious lies that were believed.

For the second feature on the program the management has secured Max Marsh in "Taddy, the Next-Best-Thing," a very clever Irish story prettily surrounded with the necessary life and action to make it attractive and interesting.

The usual comedy, weekly, and excellent musical numbers by Al Forest and Leo Belmont will help make the program complete.

For the last three days of the week a program of special merit is scheduled. Charles Ray in "The Girl I Loved," a story written about James Whitcomb Riley's poem, and the one and only Nazimova in "Salome." That's a program that will surely attract banner crowds.

Joint Recital Easter Sunday at Auditorium

SOPHIE BRASLAU

The opening of the advance sale of seats for the Sophie Braslau-Alan McQuinn joint recital in the Memorial Auditorium, Easter Sunday evening, April 20, brought hundreds of music lovers to Chaffin's today, where the sale will continue all next week.

The noted artists will come to Lowell under the auspices of the Lowell Notre Dame Alumnae association and a capacious audience is expected, as a single price has been set for every seat in the house.

Sophie Braslau is the noted contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, while Alan McQuinn is a talented Irish tenor.

One of the secrets of the success of Sophie Braslau, now the foremost of the younger generation of American contraltos, is that she never has alighted any task, no matter how small it was or how unimportant it seemed. In that she is a very good example for other singers to follow, for big things merely grow from little. In her early years at the Metropolitan Opera House, being a young and inexperienced singer, naturally only small roles were given to her and her friends used to complain rather bitterly because her great talent was not recognized at once. Her reply was typical: "I think that each and every part that is given us at a place like the Metropolitan is worth while. It means a great deal in experience and it is a great education to work with great singers. No part should be too small for any one who wants a career—that is, if it is a stepping stone to a better part, and if the artist does his part it generally is."

"Some people say to me: 'Why are you contented just to sing three bars here and four bars there?' It's only a little I know but it will help to six bars and the eight bars and so on, and so the big roles are finally achieved. Just before I made my debut I happened to read Tolstoy's essay on art and it inspired me with a wonderful reverence for making my bit well. Tolstoy said if all the little parts did not go well there could not be a great work."

The soundness of Miss Braslau's theory is proved by her own career, for she started at the very beginning and has arrived at a place where the stars when many another singer is still struggling and waiting "for the great opportunity."

Alan McQuinn, who will make his Lowell debut with Miss Braslau, brings an unusual knowledge of life to the career he has chosen. Born in Bray, County Wicklow, Ireland, he was educated at St. Francis Xavier's and Stonyhurst, in England. The Irish tenor's inclinations ran counter to the parental desire, so that instead of becoming a priest he went to the Canadian northwest and took up ranch life. From ranch to railroad, then a try for fortune in Dawson City. After these few years of wandering he settled down to serious work in the United States and is now realizing his heart's desire in entering upon a concert career. The widely known composer and critic, James H. Rusk, reviewing in the Cleveland Plain Dealer a performance of the "Messiah," said: "So far as the solos were concerned, chief honors are certainly due to Alan McQuinn, who not only possessed a ringing tenor voice of decidedly pleasant texture, but showed uncommon skill in his use of it."

Movie Folk Like Wandering Lambs

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

N.E.A. Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, April 12.—Motion picture people, agreed these redoubtable press agents, who have publicized and managed a score of these celebrities, "when left to themselves are the most helpless lot in the world."

"Never on time for an engagement," said one.

"Get lost and wander around like babes in the woods," said another.

"Hardly know enough to come in out of the rain, unless they get a cue," added the third.

"That's it—the cue," they concluded on an explanation. "At work almost every move they make is dictated, prompted, specified by the director. That dull initiative, self-reliance, resourcefulness. Of the lot, with no shepherd to guide 'em, they're wandering lambs."

REGAINED HER HEARING

It may be of interest to many Lowell people to learn that Mrs. Anne de Turpin, wife of the famous comedian, Ruth Roland was admirably cited as an exception.

"Yes, she's prompt, to the minute. Doesn't have to be reminded half a dozen times of an engagement. But she's a business woman, a business woman even more than the actress. Been taught to think for herself, to appreciate the value of time, to keep from rambling about nerves. The press agent's delight, Ruth!"

But how the ears of many others must have smarted at this razzing! Most of them are ladies. Their names I withhold. I am, sometimes, a gentleman. But let them not heroics trifle too much with my reportorial time. I can be goaded to almost any crime.

And speaking of press agents, a necessary evil to the movie industry—some of them have a sense of humor. Witness the transcript of Mike Boylan's one-minute interview with his office boy, Mike. Is the high power publicist for First National pictures.

"Henry," queried Mike, "who is your favorite star?"

"Ben Turpin,"

"But, Henry, Mr. Turpin doesn't work for First National, and we do?"

"Listen, do you want me to 'yes' you, or tell the truth?"

"You may tell the truth, just for novelty."

"Well, Turpin is my favorite, and I won't say anything else."

"Henry, you stupid little wretch, didn't Colleen Moore give you a beautiful fur for Christmas, and didn't Sylvia Breamer send you to the ball park in her car? Where are your manners?"

"Henry, I have a bright, shiny dollar in my pocket. I will give it to you if you will tell me truly the name of your favorite star."

"Ben Turpin."

COOLIDGE NOTE IS ATTACKED

Differences Between President and Senate Democrats Near an Open Break

Criticism of Appointment of Hency Resented — Called "Rebuke" by Sen. Walsh

WASHINGTON, Apr. 12.—Differences between President Coolidge and senate democrats over the conduct of investigations—particularly the one dealing with the internal revenue bureau—has developed toward an open break.

In addition to the president's vigorous message admonishing it to confine the activities of its committee within "constitutional and legal rights," the senate has before it two resolutions relating to the inquiry—one by Chairman Watson, republican, Indiana, proposing discharge of the committee, and another by Senator Jones of New Mexico, a democratic member of the committee, proposing authority to employ counsel at the senate's expense.

Senator Watson's resolution was introduced prior to receipt of the president's message, which transmitted a letter from Secretary Mellon, but after the committee had voted three to two to permit Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, to employ Francis J. Hency of California as special counsel at his own expense.

Senator Walsh of Montana, prosecutor for the Teapot Dome oil investigation, declared the message was a "rebuke" to all senate investigating committees.

"The president wants us to stop these investigations and he ought to say so," the Montana senator said. "Of course, he isn't asking anything of that kind, but the message unquestionably was written to formulate public opinion, which would have that effect."

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader; Senator Jones of New Mexico and others from the democratic side joined in the attack which held the senate far beyond its usual closing hour. It went unanswered from the republican side.

Both Senators Robinson and Walsh aimed their fire at the more general statements of the message. The president transmitted with the message a letter from Secretary Mellon of the treasury, which prompted his intervention, also a copy of the committee resolution authorizing employment of Hency. With reference to these, the message characterized the "attack being made on the treasury department" as going beyond the limits of "legitimate requirements." Constitutional rights of the senate and executive departments should be maintained, the president said, adding:

"But these rights ought not to be used as a subterfuge to cover unwarranted intrusion. It is the duty of the executive to resist such intrusion and to bring to the attention of the senate its serious consequences. That I shall do in this instance."

The message referred specifically to a request made by Senator Couzens last Wednesday in the revenue bureau investigating committee on bureau officials who were present for a list of companies in which Mr. Mellon was interested, for the purposes of investigation, which secrecy of tax returns prevented, for committee examination.

"Specially the request for a list of the companies in which the secretary of the treasury was alleged to be interested, for the purposes of investigating their tax returns, must have been dictated by some other motive than a desire to secure information for the purpose of legislation," the message said.

Secretary Mellon's letter declared that it is now obvious that his (the secretary's) sole purpose is to vent some personal grievance against me."

Senator Robinson said that he would do or say nothing to widen the breach between the senate and White House.

Turning to the Mellon letter to President Coolidge, he read this extract:

"When, through unnecessary interference, the proper exercise of this duty (that of efficient conduct of his office) is rendered impossible, I must advise you that neither I nor any other man of character can longer take responsibility for the treasury."

He was found not guilty of a third count which charged him with aiding in procuring evidence for a divorce case in connection with the arrest of Mrs. Asa H. Chandler, wife of the wealthy soft drink manufacturer, here last February.

His dismissal marked the third time Beavers has been deposed during his 11 years as chief.

INCREASE IN WAGES FOR NEW HAVEN EMPLOYEES

New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad conductors, trainmen and yardmen have been granted the following increases in hourly rates:

Passenger service 375

Freight service 345

This announcement came this morning from Special Representative H. A. Moulton, N. Y. N. H. & H. offices in the South station, Boston, and follows an amicable conference held in New York on April 10, at which were present executives of the railroad corporation and President L. E. Shippard, of the Order of Railway Conductors; Vice-President William N. Boak, of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and the general chairman and the committees of the employees coming within the scope of the discussion.

The Central New England railway is also included in the agreement.

The railroad management has issued a statement, saying that the new agreement provides for some modification in the rule relating to the 30 minutes preparatory allowance for men engaged in passenger train service, which will now specify the actual time required, and for the adoption of the standard 20-cents per hour speed basis for the payment of crews on runs any of which is in excess of 50 miles, has been incorporated.

It is estimated that the increases will cost approximately $450,000 per annum for these classes of employees.

Further conferences were held yesterday between the management and the grand lodge officers and committee representing the engineers and firemen, and progress was made toward final disposition of their wage demands.

St. Patrick's Rectory Example of Far-Sighted Economy in Design and Construction

ST. PATRICK'S RECTORY OPEN TO PUBLIC TOMORROW

New Structure Will Be Opened for Inspection Tomorrow—Building Stands as Monument to Zeal and Faith of Parish Members—Description of Building

The new St. Patrick's rectory at the corner of Suffolk and Cross streets—an artistic monument to the zeal and faith of the members of Lowell's oldest Catholic parish—will be formally opened for inspection tomorrow when the general public is invited by the pastor, Rev. John J. McGarry, D.C.L., to view the initial step in the proposed program of beautifying Catholic church property in the "Ave." The new rectory as it stands today, in its design and construction, is a perfect example of far-sighted economy, and yet it is a structure in which St. Patrick's parishioners in particular, and the entire community in general, may take great pride. Plans for the building were drawn about a year and a half ago by William B. Colleary, a noted Boston architect, with offices in the Little Building in the Hub. Ground was first broken on St. Patrick's day, 1922, and on the same feast-day this year, the completed structure was blessed and dedicated with impressive ceremonies. The old rectory, formerly located on the site of the present building, was removed to Ponwick street and continued in use as the parish house.

Tomorrow, the priests of the parish, Rev. Dr. McGarry, Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, and Rev. Thomas J. McDonough, will take up their abode in the new quarters, where they will greet the members of their flock, and people from every section of the city. The old rectory will be converted into a parish center or meeting house for sodalities and societies.

Description of Building

REV. JOHN J. MCGARRY, D.C.L. Pastor

providing separate means of exit from the house in case of fire. All ceilings throughout the house are metal lathed and hard-plastered as a fire protection.

The basement contains, besides storage space, janitor's work room, an up-to-date laundry, with gas clothes drier, washing machines, trays, etc., and clothes chute, heating rooms with hot water storage tanks, coal bins, etc.

The first floor is taken up by three public offices, in front portion of building, a small sanctuary with travertine altar, main stair hall, pastor's office, filing closets, dining room, maid's dining alcove, serving pantry, kitchen and kitchen work rooms.

On the second floor are suites for three priests, each suite consisting of study, chamber and bath with ample closets. Also in the rear of this floor, three maid's rooms with bathroom, linen closets, are located.

The third floor is taken up by a suite for one priest, as on second floor—three guest rooms, and a recreation room. The building is of red brick with white cast-stone trimmings.

Dining Room

The dining room on the first floor is one of the main features of the house and is reminiscent of the refectories of the monasteries of Italy, especially those in and around Florence. It is treated with stone walls, tile floor and beamed ceiling. The windows of this room, and also the doors in the built-in china cabinets, are of leaded glass.

The recreation room on the third floor is designed as a ship's hold, with curved oak walls, horizontal joints, oak decked beams on the ceilings, side ribs and knee braces. The lighting fixtures of the above room were designed from antique examples of nautical lanterns. The future furnishings of this room will be nautical in feeling and will embrace such features as a binnacle, chart desk, life preservers, ship's models, cutlasses, muskets, etc. The floor of this room will be cloth carpet. All the oak in this room is finished in silver gray and the ceiling which represents the deck beams, is stained a jade green. Jade green hangings will be used around the windows in this room.

Main Stairhall

Floors and treads of stairs in this portion are of cork tile for quietness. On the first floor in this portion and on the newel post at the foot of the stairs, a statue of St. Patrick, patron saint of the parish, is carved in walnut and is a fine example of wood-carver's art. This was done by Mr. Paloski of Boston.

Mechanical Features

Last word in up-to-date appliances, latest devices, 24-inch clothes chute with openings from every floor in the house communicating with the laundry in the basement. Incinerator communicating from every floor in the house into which rubbish of every description, including swill, waste papers, dust, etc., are thrown for burning in basement. The various rooms throughout the house are connected by an interior telephone system in addition to outside accommodation.

The ranges in the kitchen are of the so-called French type, universally used in hotels and restaurants. These are erected upon a brick hearth and are covered by a steel hood connected to a vent in the chimney. Refrigerators are of the automatic type and are installed as follows: The main refrigerator in the passage just off the kitchen, to take care of all perishable material delivered, a smaller unit in the serving pantry and another smaller unit in a closet just off the recreation room on the third floor.

Old Relics There

Relics of the old rectory have been preserved in the new house—The old hand-bell by which maids summoned the various priests for confessions, will be given a prominent place on a small shelf directly over the modern electric call system communicating to the various priests' rooms. The old foot-scraper, which for years saw service on the steps of the old rectory, has been installed on the platform of the steps of the new rectory.

Sun Porch

On the level of the second floor of the main portion, a door is provided which gives access to the roof over the service portion and this is treated as a sort of roof garden with a pergola above it. This will later be screened with bamboo screens, vines growing about, etc.

Laundry

The clothes chute mentioned before also serves, when the clothes-chute door in the laundry is opened, as a ventilator through the roof of the building.

The wooden hatch in the recreation room is connected by a hood to a ventilator through the roof to remove smoke from this room when occupied.

General and Sub-Contractors

sub-contractors were the following: Daniel Leary, steamfitting; Bartlett and Dow, Hardware; E. F. Gilligan Co., painting; J. L. Douglas, roofing; Maltais P. Connors, plastering; Lowell Gas Light Co., clothes dryer; James F. McElholm & Son, electrical work.

The men's missions in St. Patrick's, the Immaculate Conception and the Sacred Heart churches will be brought to a successful close tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock, the services to consist of the renewal of baptismal vows, bestowal of the papal benediction, sermon, rosary and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The Holy Name society of the Sacred Heart church will receive communion in a body at the 7.30 o'clock mass tomorrow morning, and afterwards repair to the hall of the Sacred Heart school where a communion breakfast will be served. The principal speaker at the postprandial exercises will be Rev. James Gallagher, O.M.I., of Buffalo, N. Y.

Tomorrow morning also, members of the Y.M.C.A. will receive communion at the 7.30 o'clock mass in the Immaculate Conception church. A communion breakfast and entertainment will follow afterwards in the institute rooms.

TODAY'S CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Antonio M. Roussel, charged with operating while drunk, had his plea of not guilty sustained in district court this morning. The prosecution was weak in that complaining officers could not testify they saw him actually operate the auto which he owns and which they found him alighting from. Roussel was represented by Daniel J. Donahue as counsel. Judge Burdick dismissed the complaints and ordered the prisoner discharged. The drunkenness complaint, being first offense, on record, was filed upon a plea of guilty.

The murder complaint against John Wlechinsky, being now in the hands of the Middlesex superior criminal court, was filed by order of Judge Burdick. John Tsaffaras, arrested March 8 on an arson charge, consented to a further continuance of two weeks pending grand jury action.

Michael Themis, charged with abusing a child, was represented by Joseph Donahue as counsel. A continuance to next Friday was agreed upon.

A continuance to June 12 was granted in the non-support case brought March 18 against Ray P. Courtenay by his wife. The continuance was asked by agreement of counsel.

Jacob Turner was arraigned on a drunkenness complaint, and was given a suspended sentence.

Donald MacPadden's case was first on the long calendar of continued cases. He is charged with being drunk on April 7 and upon request of counsel a continuance to next Friday was granted.

George H. Heagan, who got drunk despite the fact that he had a five months' suspended sentence hanging over his head, started today to serve that sentence. Judge Burdick revoking the suspension.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Senator James Couzens of Michigan, who until Wednesday was pressing the senate investigation of the internal revenue bureau, fared an operation today because of a sudden recurrence of a stomach ailment which has troubled him for several years. Physicians attending Senator Couzens decided upon the operation last night and summoned a specialist from Detroit, his home, although earlier in the day his illness had been described as a "serious" but "not dangerous" attack of indigestion. He was said late last night to be "resting easily."

WOMAN FACES MURDER CHARGE

Mrs. Johanna Tell to Be Returned to Connecticut, Pending Hearing

Warrant for Her Arrest Followed Discovery of Body of Charles Blair

KILLINGWORTH, Conn., April 12.—Charged with murder of Charles Blair, which, but for her confession, officials declare, might never have been discovered, Mrs. Johanna Tell was expected to be returned to Connecticut today by state policemen who left for New York this forenoon, armed with a warrant for the arrest of the woman.

The warrant was issued last night by State Attorney Ingalls of Middletown and turned over to Grand Juror C. P. Marquard of this town, following the discovery of Blair's body, buried in a fertilizer pit of his own making on his chicken farm at Pea Hill.

Under instruction from Coroner L. A. Smith of Middletown, Dr. D. A. Fox of Clinton and Dr. Jesse W. Fisher of Middletown, planned to perform a formal autopsy on Blair's body at Clinton this afternoon. Coroner Smith will conduct an inquest early next week.

If Mrs. Tell waives extradition and comes to Connecticut she will be lodged in the county jail at Haddam, pending a preliminary hearing to be held before a justice of the peace here. Meantime state police and agents of the state's attorney were busy at the Blair home checking up in detail the story of Mrs. Tell, who declared that she killed Blair by shooting after he had threatened her with an axe during one of a number of quarrels over her refusal to marry him. A bullet wound in the head and other wounds on the body were believed to corroborate the woman's story that she had first shot Blair and then hacked his body with an axe. Today's autopsy is expected to develop certainly the evidence in this matter.

GYPSY QUEEN BURIED WITH POMP FROM BALTIMORE CHURCH

Some Egyptian Customs Observed in Commitment of Body—The Presidency Contest—Third Party Gossip—Massachusetts a Doubtful State on Senator

(Special to The Sun)
WASHINGTON, April 12.—Somewhere we associate a gypsy queen with wild roving life, a long line of cover-foreign countries, tinkling bells, a wagon with occasionally seen in real life, or with the gypsy chorus of the stage, yet it was within a stone throw of the capital that a gypsy queen of unquestioned authenticity was buried last week, with a mingling of Christian and Pagan ritual and rites never before witnessed in the United States.

With all the mystic ceremony of long forgotten ages, preceded by a requiem mass in one of Baltimore's largest Catholic churches, the body of Jeanora, queen of a powerful band of gypsies, was buried in Mt. Olivet cemetery in the capital of the nation. Her husband, King John, rules the tribe with a powerful hand. Their home in Baltimore is described as very beautiful, and the ceremony of the burial, and the carrying out of mystic rites, as old as the pyramids, attracted a throng of people in a city accustomed to strange foreign customs as seen through its diplomatic corp.

PAINS IN BACK CAUSED BY GRIP

Banished by Building Up Blood Weakened by the Acute Attack

"Three months after I had an attack of grip I was still suffering from its effects," says Mrs. Sadie Jones, of No. 1 Lennon street, Salem, Mass. "I was troubled with pains in the back, was weak and had frequent chills when it seemed as though I could not get warm. I did not care much for food, nothing tasted right, and I could not do my work. I just dragged one foot after the other. I was very nervous and was easily startled."

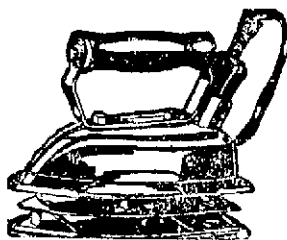

"I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills some years ago to build up my blood so I thought I would try them again. They helped me right off. I commenced to eat better and soon got stronger. My nerves quieted down, I did not have the chills any more, nor that all-gone feeling. The pains in my back went away. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills built me up and gave me new strength and ambition and I am glad to recommend them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent post-paid, on receipt of price, sixty cents per box, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A valuable booklet, "Building Up the Blood" will be sent free upon request.—Ad.

Detailed Description of House Plan Illustrated on Page 9

This home might be called western in style, due to the marked horizontal lines. However, it is adaptable to any section of the country. It meets the present demand for a compact, conveniently arranged interior. It can be erected on a 40 to 45 foot lot, and is designed to face west or north. It can be reversed for other facings.

The large open front porch is a feature. There are practically no hallways to waste room. There is no space that is not useful space. This house can have an attic if desired, reached by a stairway in the closet of the larger bedroom.

The house is planned to be built of frame with exterior finish of shingle or wide siding. There is a full basement.

Cubic contents of the house are approximately 20,000 feet, and the cost to build this house, including heating, plumbing, lighting, painting, ready to live in, but not including wall decorations, should range between $5,000 and $7,000. In certain localities where costs are high, the highest figure quoted would be too low. In other localities, the lowest figure quoted would be more than sufficient. The range of $1,000 is given to cover differences in the way the house is built and how thoroughly it is equipped and completed.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The plans for small homes are furnished by the Regional Bureau of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., an organization made up of the representative practicing architects from leading architectural offices throughout the United States. It is practically a non-profit making public service, and has as its purpose the furnishing of a very complete and dependable small house plan service at modest cost. Gas—Water—Oil The Three Essentials

ON these three essentials depends the power output and satisfactory performance of your car, allowing that it is in reasonably good mechanical condition.

Of these three, the lubricating oil, representing but little more than 2½% of the cost of operation, maintenance and depreciation, carries the burden of protecting the 1500 or more moving parts and of providing the piston ring seal necessary to obtain full compression.

Your lubricating oil is the most important factor in protecting you against expensive repairs and rapid depreciation.

Oil should be added frequently in the quantity necessary to maintain the oil in the reservoir between half full and "full."

Every 1000 miles the used oil should be drained from the

crank-case and an entire fresh supply poured in.

For these reasons the careful motorist today buys his Gargoyl Mobiloil in sealed 5-gallon cans or 15-, 30-, or 55-gallon steel drums (with convenient, leak-proof faucets) and keeps a supply in his home garage.

With such a supply of Mobiloil in your home garage you form the valuable habit of attending frequently to the oil level in the engine. And you protect yourself against any need to accept a substitute for genuine Mobiloil.

Nearby dealers carry complete stocks of Gargoyl Mobiloil in all grades and in the various sizes of containers. Their copy of the Complete Chart of Recommendations will show exactly which grade of Mobiloil should be used for your car—no matter what make or model it may be.

For Your Touring Needs

Gargoyl Mobiloil in the new convenient one-quart can, at 35c each or 3 for $1.00, is now on sale in the New England States, New York, Pennsylvania, and the Middle Western States. As fast as production will permit this package will be placed on sale elsewhere.

Put two or three one-quart cans under the seat. A handy refill when your oil gets low along the road. Be prepared!

HOUSE SENSE

The largest amount of real estate ever owned by the majority of men is the plot on which their house stands; their greatest venture in finance is the owning of a home. For it they tie themselves down to a locality, they mortgage their future, they color their children's lives as well as their own. The choosing of a home site, then, should be a matter of grave concern, and the selection made only after careful investigation of all the local conditions present and prospective.

TO PREVENT CORRUPTION

That was a good move by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, calling for legislation to prevent future unlawful practices in the matter of campaign expenditures and to require semi-annual returns of contributions to all nationally organized political parties and also such a report as would indicate the sources from which their funds are derived and the purposes for which said funds were expended. Such legislation would prohibit political parties from accepting large contributions such as the oil interests paid to the republican party to wipe out the deficit in the expenditures after the campaign of 1920. Such a law would serve a good purpose for the reason that no large concern like the Sinclair Oil company is handing over any large amount of money to the political party elected to power without a good prospect of substantial returns in special favors. In every such case the contributing concern looks forward to a political quid pro quo.

Senator Walsh's resolution also calls for the registration of all lobbyists who appear before congressional committees to advocate or oppose legislation, and the names of the individuals, corporations or special interests for which they appear. The legislation proposed under Senator Walsh's resolve would go far toward preventing corruption such as is now under investigation in Washington. It would also prevent special interests from pushing unpopular legislation through congress without letting the public know anything of their movements. The provision for identification of the interests that employ or maintain the lobbyists in special cases would serve a good purpose. It is charged that even amendments to the constitution have been lobbied through congress by the expenditure of money furnished by some of the wealthiest men in the country and in such a quiet way that the public was unaware of what was going on until the harm was done and beyond recall. The public will watch with keen interest what the republicans will do with this resolution offered by the democratic senator from Massachusetts. Possibly they will be too busy to attend to any such motion. They usually are. The junior senator also reminded the majority that valuable time has been lost in political maneuvering that should have been devoted to the important business of the nation. In this Senator Walsh states only what is well known to all who have watched the proceedings of congress during the past six months.

THOSE PREHISTORIC FOSSILS

The skeleton of a prehistoric woman, a glintless eight feet tall, has been dug up in the Salmon River country of Idaho. Scientists are excited about the find. The skeleton probably will wind up in a museum, to be seen by only a small portion of the public.

What a pity it is that old P. T. Barnum isn't alive to popularize these scientific discoveries by making people pay admission to see them, the reason for the unpopularity of knowledge is that it is free.

The mysterious past is rapidly giving up its secrets. The skulls found recently in California belonged to people who lived before the glacial period about 20,000 years ago, if the calculations of geologists as to the age of rock formations are correct. But this is where the discrepancy may exist as to the time that required fifty thousand years to form under certain conditions of heat and moisture might require only a mere fraction of that time as a result of other conditions equally natural.

Another big find is made by the Nevada mining engineer, John T. Reid. Two years ago he discovered what looked like a fossil of the sole of a shoe. It even had marks of holes punched for thread. This fossil was found in rock supposed to be millions of years old. It is a scientific mystery. Experts decide that it may be a freak of nature. They don't think people lived that long ago.

Reid's latest find is the fossil of a horse's foot. This fossil is amazing the scientists. They had it all figured out that the horse originally was a cat-sized animal with four toes on each foot, and that evolution gradually turned it into the modern big beast with two toes and hoofs in their place. The fossil found by Reid should have toes according to their theory. Instead, however, it is like the modern horse's foot.

This may be the disciples of Darwin, who would have us believe that no animal existed prior to the time it does today, with the possible exception of the monkey, a favorite creation and upon the Creator's lavish distribution of the beautiful in the animal kingdom.

If uniform atmospheric conditions and uniform laws of pressure, attraction and gravitation, were in operation since the creation, then the deductions of scientists in regard to the length of time required to effect certain structural changes in the rock strata near the earth's surface, might be correct, but who can tell what have been the variations in such laws within certain periods of time or at certain places on our planet?

That problem, we believe, is beyond the power even of the scientists who judge of the age of rocks in much the same way as they compute the age of certain trees by counting the number of rings in a cross section of the trunk. In case of the trees the basis of calculation is much more reliable and more easily demonstrable than that of rock formations.

COTTON GROWING EXPANDS

Rain cotton production is on the increase. The increase is found in those districts that are as yet comparatively free from the boll weevil, according to an official southern survey analysis just sent out from St. Louis.

Indications are that new cotton-growing operations are extending northward and westward in many southern quarters. Many sections in the upper borders of the so-called "cotton belt" are gaining in importance as "cotton territories."

These reports, substantiated by government departments investigating them closely as they are sent in from southern points by reputable agents and cotton-growers, would make it appear that the material so necessary in the expansion of the nation's cotton textile industries may yet be adequate to meet all demands of the textile manufacturers.

Much of the curtailment in the cotton business has been due to the scarcity and consequent high price of raw

Tips for Baseball Fans

A very important thing for a fan to remember for the baseball season to come is whether his home team is good or rotten. It is really very simple to be so important. If the team hits a winning streak it is a fine bunch of boys. But if they happen to hit a losing streak they are a rotten bunch of bums, they are.

Rather Far Fetched

A couple of tourists were taking luncheon in a Los Angeles eatery. While one of them read the market reports, the other got into conversation with the attendant. Pretty soon he confided to his friend: "Our waitress says she hopes to be a movie star some day." "Fame or dramatic star?" "Oh, of course." "Then I guess it will be safe to order pie."

The Wine Counter

"Cutting, I really think your love is growing cold." "Why do you say that, my own?" "You no longer press me to hasten the wedding day." "Listen to me, Bluebell. Yesterday you told me you had gone to cooking school and that you had learned to boil a potato." "All for you." "Well, we can't live on boiled potatoes, girlie. Go, through the fish course at least, my previous, and then the wedding bells shall ring."

Good Metal, Anyhow

There was a worthy public official who had a goodly fund of common sense, but no great amount of book learning. He had never had a chance to acquire the same. Being called upon to address a class gathering, he spoke repeatedly of the university alumnus. "What does he mean?" whispered one of the audience. "He means the alumni."

Calling the Turn

Peter's father had brought home some cloth for an overcoat and both he and mother praised it highly. Little Peter eyed it thoughtfully, especially on the inner side, which led his mother to ask how he liked it. "I don't care so much for the pattern on the inside," said Peter. "What are you worrying about that for?" "Well, that's the side I'll have to wear on the outside some day."—Copenhagen Kold-Hans.

Parmer's Sarcasm

Parmer Geobach's hired man was very slow, a topic upon which the old gentleman was wont to comment. One afternoon the worthy agriculturist came in from the yard and began to rattle the pots and pans in the kitchen. "What is it, paw?" "The hired man." "Yes, yes. What's he up to?" "He's chasing a turtle. If he catches it I think he'll have turtle soup for supper. I think he's gaining."

The Communal Spirit

Edward Penfield, the artist, has had a village of "maquisettes" and a woman friend congratulated him on his feat at a recent dinner party. "How did you do it?" she asked. "By awakening a communal spirit," said Mr. Penfield. "Most people act toward the community as Smith acted toward Jones. 'Smith and Jones, you know, had a talk over the telephone. It went like this: "Hello! That you Smith?" "Sure thing." "Well, this is Jones." "Hello, Jonesy." How's the boys?" "Fine, Say Smith." "Well," "Say Smith, can you lend me a gun?" "I'll call you again sir, as soon as he comes in."—Reheboth Sunday Herald.

Dolly

When Dolly smiles my heart is gay. It's joy to have her smile at me. She has a sweet, bewitching way. And oh, how charming she can be! Her smiles light up her lovely face. Her lovely eyes of amethyst. And gives to her an added grace. Which surely no man could resist.

When Dolly smiles the universe. Immediately seems more bright. Depressing shades of gloom disperse. And everything is quite all right. Though I've been feeling dull and sad. As dejected as a man can be. When Dolly smiles my heart is glad. But not when Dolly laughs at me! —SOMERVILLE JOURNAL.

THE SPELLBINDER

The middle of next month, May, has been set as the final prorogation of the Massachusetts legislature. Hence from now on, business will be speeded up and committees will be expected to report all matters before them as expeditiously as possible. No further extension of time will be granted.

Street Improvement

Residents of Forest street are to enlist the aid of Councilman Arthur Chubb of Ward Eight in an effort to bring about an improvement in the condition of the street and the sidewalks. At the present time they are in a deplorable condition and as the street is not included in the published list of those scheduled for repairs this year, residents are to petition their representative in the city council to call the matter to the attention of the public service board.

Jefferson Club

Indications point to the Jefferson club taking an active part in local politics. The club has made rapid strides since formation and its efforts to bring Sen. K. W. Wheeler of Montpelier, who is now in the city on a visit, to Lowell for a demonstration at Washington, to Lowell will no doubt increase its popularity. There is ample room in Lowell for a live democratic organization, since no attempt has been made in recent years to organize active state days except for membership in the democratic city committee were as eagerly sought as places at city hall. Hence an opportunity for the Jefferson club to step in and fill the void is presented.

As to Political Pests

It would be well if the voters of Lowell were able to identify the political baron or professional politician who cannot earn his salt in any line of legitimate business, and who fastens himself upon the city government and insists that the municipality owes him a living at a good salary.

This type of political pest is more numerous than most people suppose. He thinks that the men and women who work hard year in and year out, and often for lower wages than they should receive, should maintain him in luxury in public office, pay for his escapades, his extravagance in the use of public funds and his reckless expenditures in payment of political debts.

The political baron is not confined to Lowell, in particular. Every city is afflicted with his persistent efforts to cling to his government in some capacity. He is to the city what the boll weevil is to the cotton planter of the south, or the corn borer to the farmers of the middle west—a destructive pest that must be eliminated for the general good.

It is high time that the electorate became conversant with the methods of this particular type of politician. In office he uses the resources of the city so far as he can to entrench himself so firmly in his position that he cannot be easily dislodged. Out of office he keeps up a continual barrage of lies and calumny against honest officials for the purpose of deceiving the people. If any of his own misdoings are brought to light, he promptly throws out a screen for his own protection in the form of false charges against some public officials.

Tom Sims Says

We never could cry very much over the suffering of a man who lost $100,000 in an oil deal, as our recently did in California. The man was sleeping so late on Sunday he got up at breakfast and then had a hard time getting hungry for dinner.

Better buy some life insurance. If the agent doesn't sell you he will try to worry you to death.

A Chicago woman claims three women friends steal her husband, and is bound to give him the swell bed.

It is estimated a great many men will get hot worrying about the weather during the next few months.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

In the current issue of the Giffers magazine there is a most interesting article about one of Lowell's estimable citizens, Gen. Adelbert Ames, who annually spends his winters in Florida and much of the time as a close friend and golfing companion of John D. Rockefeller. The article referred to the friendship between the two men as reflected by their constant association on the links and the daily excursions they take from tee to cup on the splendid courses where the Gulf stream turns winter into summer. For many years Gen. Ames has been president of the Long Beach Golf club of Lowell and although his position has been more honorary than active, his interest in the game dates back many years and as is seen today as when he first began to play it. The article undoubtedly has been read by many golfers, for it is prominently displayed in the magazine and carries a splendid cut of Gen. Ames.

If the county commission selects a site for the new Lowell district court house, without delay the chances for construction of the new building are bright. A building proposition this year will be more than welcome in the city, where there are some too many scheduled of any appreciable size. The erection of dwelling houses with room, it is believed, but only a few so-called big jobs are in sight and a new court house, moreover, are not only supply work for many persons who are surely in need of it.

The teddy bear was invented by Margaret Steiff, Bavarian dressmaker. A memorial portrait of her will be exhibited this spring at the Leipzig toy fair. Margaret made a large fortune from the teddy bear industry she built up. And, measured by the joy she brought to children, she deserved all she got and more. Her life was a symbol of the amazing simplicity with which a woman can make an income. The public would rather have a teddy bear or an ice cream cone than a new motor.

These political methods are in operation in our city at the present time, their purpose being to deceive the people as to the character of honest candidates who may seek office at the next municipal election.

It, therefore, behooves the electorate to isolate every political pest of this kind and prevent them from fastening themselves upon the government of our city, solely for their own selfish ends and for purposes of graft rather than the service of the public. The remedy is found in their defeat, whenever they present themselves as candidates and, with this treatment in sufficient doses, these political pests may eventually be forced to seek some honest means of earning a living.

Important Lowell Bills

The Lowell delegation to the general court should unite in pushing along the bills for the district court survey of the unsurveyed conditions in the lower Concord. These measures are regarded as of great importance. The court bill originally introduced by Rep. Corbett has been modified at the behest of the county commissioner, but now in its present form, it provides for the purchase of a site and the erection of a court building which means that it will be located in the downtown district.

Rep. Brennan's bill provides for preliminary steps toward the dredging of the Concord from Billerica to the Merrimack, something which is greatly needed in the interests of the public health. It is very desirable that both measures be enacted as soon as possible in order that the work authorized thereunder may be started at once. The republicans will be held responsible for expediting the passage of the measures, as having a majority and full control, they can readily block them or push them ahead if they so desire. The public of Lowell is closely watching the hickerings over both these bills.

President Coolidge's Campaign

Republicans of Massachusetts believe that President Coolidge can win in a personal campaign. They believe that he is now the only republican who can appeal to the country inasmuch as the national organization has been so shot to pieces by charges of corruption that it stands utterly discredited before the country. The question arises, therefore, as to what President Coolidge will do to win the campaign, and nomination and election or leave it in the hands of the republican national committee. His republican friends in Massachusetts believe that his nomination is assured and that his chances of election will amount almost to a certainty.

But these views do not prevail in the west or middle west. There is a split in the republican party that would seem to forbid defeat in the coming election. The charge is made that even in the removal of Daugherty the president side-stepped the real administration, whereas he has been removal upon the trivial matter of allowing the investigation committee to examine papers from the department of justice, yet this was the only time since he entered the White House that he was really called upon for a distinct and important interference on a subject of vital moment to the entire country. It is further charged that when he delivered his message at the opening of congress, he asked for 57 different varieties of important legislation, knowing that there was but slight chance that any of them would be enacted into law. Of all the things he asked of congress, just one, he passed the house—namely—tax reduction. The one thing he specifically tabooed, to wit, the bonus, has also passed the house. When the session closes in the dog days, and the whole land is praying for congress to quit and get home, not more than half a dozen of the 57 varieties of legislation recommended by the president, will have been placed on the statute books.

There is a growing sentiment in the west that President Coolidge's inaction is but a repetition of that which was witnessed in the Taft administration, which was driven from power in 1912 and that the same fate will follow the Coolidge administration. There was then a split in the republican party, and there is a split in that party at the present time, that threatens serious results in the approaching election.

In some, the silence of President Coolidge in the face of the exciting episode that has occurred in the White House, is regarded as an inopportunistly remembering that of Gen. Grant, due to a consciousness of strength, while others claim that his silence is due to timidity arising from confusion of mind as to what he should do under such trying circumstances. The latter view, however, is recommended by the president, in the White House has not shown any conspicuous feature that would convince the country that he is the wonderful man of courage and the dauntless champion of law and order such as he was heralded to be at the republican convention of 1912. In the coming election the president will be judged on his record; but in spite of criticism and in spite of his silence, he seems to be corraling the delegates as he has now a respectable lead over all the other candidates and has practically put Hiram Johnson out of the running.

Another G.O.P. Jolt

Another break has come in the ranks of the republican party in congress in the election contest between Walter M. Chandler, republican, and Sol Bloom, democrat, of New York. The republicans had the stage set for declaring Chandler the victor in the election contest, but nine members of the radical bloc bolted and voted for Bloom, making him, therefore, the representative from the 19th New York district. This action on the part of the radicals, has more significance than might appear on the surface. The fact is that, by sending Bloom, the vote of New York in the national house would stand as follows: 21 republicans, 21 democrats and 21 progressives. The situation would have been reversed on a party division. Evidently, the radicals are calculating upon the possibility of a third party entering the field and throwing the election of president into the national house. It is not clear that Bloom was not the victor in the election. The probability is that he was, and he was saved only by his friends coming to his aid on the final vote, which stood 210 to 203. It has been a great disappointment to the republicans who planned the seating of Chandler regardless of whether he was elected or not. The party that endorsed Newberry, after his honest campaign, would have no quarrel in endorsing a republican candidate, even though he fell behind his opponent, who was to be defeated and rejected on the charge of having spent too much money to secure his election. But Sol Bloom will hold New York state in line if the

CHARM—

Too late, alas! I must confess,
You need not arts to move me;
Such charms by nature you possess,

To boast, though my unfaithful eyes
Betray a tender story.

IT ALL DEPENDS

Say, whenever we mention bathtub to our little six-year-old, he starts to fuss and fume and fight and fret. Perhaps, some day, he'll quite enjoy the water hot or cold—perhaps he will, but that bright day's not yet. And when we even talk about the washing of his neck, or mention that his hands and face are soiled, this little tot just hollers till his mother is a wreck. Ah, yes, we must admit the child is spoiled.

You cannot tell a youngster that a bar of soap is finer; you can't convince that scrubbing does him good. At least that sort of chatter never seems to go with mine; he never uses soap just as he should.

But just the same this water fear is bunko as a rule, 'cause while the child at home will act that way, he changes, absolutely, when he sees a swimmin' pool and in the pool he'll splash all day.

Entertain Young People
The annual reunion of the Young People's fraternity of the Unitarian church was held 25 years ago with the following officers: President, Rev. Mr. Billings, vice-president, Edward Carney, Treasurer William Lamson, Secretary Miss Mabel Nickerson.

Miss Littlefield's Popularity
From the old Sun: "Miss Cora A. Littlefield, the clever soprano of Tringboro who won golden laurels by her able impersonation of 'Lenore' in the opera of the American Girl, which delighted large audiences in the Opera house for three nights, appeared in one of the roles of a 'Killing Fool' and 'Hobby Shaftoe,' presented by amateur companies. She is lauded as a clever singer, and an actress of considerable talent, although very modest and unassuming. She is a graduate of the Bradford academy in Haverhill.

Miss Cora Littlefield, who is now Mrs. Richard Rockwell, resides with her husband in New York, where he is in business.

Historic Picture
Says the old Sun: "A water color picture of the old John Elliot meeting house, that stood on the site of the present Elliot church has been painted by Mr. Edwin R. Clark. Through the efforts of Mr. C. Oliver Barnes, a sum of money was raised for the purchase of the picture and after being suitably framed it was presented to the church. On million of Deacon Hall, a vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Barnes."

Ex-Mayor Courtney's Death
From the old Sun: "After a lingering illness from Bright's disease, Hon. William F. Courtney, Lowell's popular ex-mayor, passed away at St. John's hospital at 8 o'clock this morning. He had been in the hospital only a few days, but his condition was such that no hope was held out for his recovery."

The old Sun had a long list of tributes to his memory and public services from prominent citizens. He had graduated from the Harvard Law school in 1870, served in the legislature in 1882 and as city solicitor in 1886. He was nominated for mayor in 1902 and 1913 but was defeated both years by Hon. John J. Pickman. He was nominated again in 1914 and was elected. He was re-elected for a second term but was defeated for a third term by Col. James W. Bennett. He was married in 1896 to Miss Alice Brouillette, who survived him.

Patriotic Day
Patriotic Day, 25 years ago, was quietly observed without any special demonstration beyond celebrations in the halls of the Grand Army and Spanish War Veterans. A great number of bicycle riders and others visited Concord and Lexington to view the scene of the first battle of the revolution.

New Method of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh steadily and easily without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results follow the use of those pleasant, harmless and economical little fat reducers. We say economical, because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) can be obtained of any druggist the world over or from the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., for one dollar a box, which is a decidedly economical price, considering the number of tablets each box contains. They are harmless.—Adv.

FEAST OF EMANCIPATION WILL BEGIN APRIL 18

Israel's Feast of Emancipation starts at sundown, Friday, April 18, when faithful Jews begin the celebration of the Passover festival, held in high reverence. It is set down as the anniversary of the Exodus from Egypt, when the people of Israel first asserted itself as a free nation. It is celebrated not only in the synagogues, where the usual services are read, but it is especially notable as a home festival, the greatest known to the Jews.

Observing the Feast of Emancipation, solemn services will be conducted in the morning and evening at the three Lowell synagogues, with the celebration of the Passover and formal rituals as of yore. Outside of the synagogues—in the homes of the Jewish people far and wide—there will be celebrations of note.

It is not remarkable that the 15 million of Jews on earth today are eager to mark this anniversary, the Jews are today the sole survivors of all ancient peoples, and they take a pride most naturally in tracing their history backward to the fifteenth century before the Christian era, as one of the greatest proofs that their ideals are still needed in the world of today.

In all Jewish homes the method of celebration is interesting and impressive, for the ancient tale of the redemption is retold, accompanied by songs set to traditional melodies, which have become endeared to old and young, and aid in making the feast both entertaining and enjoyable.

Married children meet with their parents around the festive board, and all are inspired with the feeling not only of family unity, but also with the call of the faith to some who have not always listened for it.

Thus the feast is ushered in, to last for seven days, marked by the use of the unleavened bread, the putting aside of all leaven from the homes, and a solemn ceremonial to close the feast on the last day. Among the orthodox, not only the first day but also the second is marked as holy, and they also add an eighth day at the close of the week.

The family circle is extended at this time to include friends who are not so fortunate, as to have their families at hand, and some of the synagogues have instituted what are called "Congregational Passover Suppers," in which all who do not have the feast at home may join. The partaking of several cups of wine is prescribed by the ancient authorities as a mark of joy.

ARCHBISHOP ZEPLIAK AT RIGA, ESTONIA

LONDON, April 12.—Archbishop Zepliak, head of the Roman Catholic church in Russia, released from prison by the soviet authorities, arrived at Riga, Estonia, in an exhausted condition, according to the Riga correspondent of the Daily Mail.

Since the recent announcement by the Russian government of its intention to release Archbishop Zepliak there have been several conflicting stories concerning his whereabouts, some declaring that he was still in prison and others that he was at liberty.

The prelate has been in prison a year, following his condemnation to death and subsequent reprieve on charges of resisting the Bolshevik government.

REMARKABLE EFFICIENCY OF MACK TRUCKS

The remarkable efficiency of the present day Mack truck is maintained by ten many factors of strength and safety that it embodies—case-hardened parts, large bearing surfaces, long pistons and connecting rods, together with other remarkable and long-life construction parts.

Efficiency and safety are more than technical considerations with Mack engineers. Important Mack features, in addition to those just mentioned, include wide-faced transmission gears, ample sized springs and axles, simple rugged steering knuckles and brakes. The Macks have required a traditional significance and importance in the world of motor trucks that are reflected on the highways by performance characteristics only of motor convenience that the world is talking about today.

The selection of the truck body design and capacity best suited to the requirements of the individual purchaser, is of vital importance. All the standard types come in the Mack line of bodies, from the one 1/2-ton upward in the usual requirements. The original chain drive has been retained and is offered as usual on all truck models. The present Mack motor is of the 4-cylinder, 4-cylinder, vertical engine and selective transmission.

The International Motor company producing the wonderful Mack world-famous trucks is very efficiently represented in Lowell by the Mack Motor Truck company of 39 First street, on the new Lawrence boulevard. The company operates at this very convenient and handsomely equipped location in the heart of Lowell, a factory branch service station and sales mart. The entire Lowell organization is exclusively devoted to giving service to Mack trucks.

There is 20,000 square feet of floor space on First street, all devoted to servicing Mack trucks exclusively. There is a force of 4 people, all experts, devoting their entire time to servicing Mack trucks. Every part of a Mack truck is kept constantly in stock. There is a similar service station in every large city in New England, also, thus making Mack service ideal.

Prompt service is the rule at the well known Lowell Mack headquarters and sales station on First street. No motor vehicle agency is more prosperous today in this locality, no better trucks for all transportation purposes anyone could think of, can be found anywhere. For the name of the famous Mack is backed up by perfect engineering, bringing efficient service at lowest cost, and master workmanship, the three sturdy legs that support the ultimate performance record of the wonderfully powerful, long-service Mack.

CLEANSING CLOTHES TO LOOK LIKE NEW

Few laundries in New England have as honorable a trade name for admirable performance year in and year out in the business of cleansing and drying garments and cloth goods of every household and personal use, as does the famous and widely known Highland Steam Laundry. Located for years at No. 4 Fletcher street, with a prompt collection and delivery system that covers every section of Lowell and all surrounding towns in wide area, this progressive, sanitary and long-established "Home of the Cleaned" finds itself this season on the high-roads of new business in its important industry, which is in a class by itself. Now is the time for men and women to send their old clothes to the Highland and have them thoroughly cleaned like new by the famous dry cleaning method originated by this Fletcher street laundry establishment and found nowhere else. The essential thing is to have cloth materials sent to the laundry, come back in good condition. Extreme care is always used at the Highland plant to preserve the quality, color and strength of every article sent to the establishment for cleaning and ironing. No damaged "returns" from the Highland.

There is no busier cleansing plant in Lowell; no institution of its kind that more faithfully serves customers, large and small. All goods are called for directly at the homes and delivered without extra charges. It is a service long established, one that has proved most useful indeed to housewives, and all orders when taken for stated time returns, are carried out as thoroughly as desired. The Highland Steam Laundry's handy telephone dispatch number is 1760. 1760. Just remember that number when you, Mrs. Housewife, make up your next bundle of laundry for the "washerwoman." You will be surprised at the Highland service feature of the phone-call arrangement if you try it just once.

SUPREME VALUES IN ROUNDS' PORTRAITS

"Your Photographer" would have a word with readers of The Sun this week. It is a message worth listening in upon, too, and there is no need of plugging in on any amateur wireless for the message, for here it is.

"Your Photographer," the well known Mr. Will Rounds, whose most attractive studio is conveniently located at 132 First street, off Lawrence boulevard, and just a short walk from Lowell's mercantile centre, announces for the spring season a "special" of supreme value, never before offered at such a price—portraits at $5 per dozen. There are photographers and photographers, portraits and portraits, but no photo artist anywhere can exceed in fine quality work, the careful finish of the genuinely artistic photographs produced at the beautiful Will Rounds studios on First street. Quality work, much of it superb in its original presentations, its fine finish and desirable, lasting qualities in the tone effects and natural portraiture, is always the Rounds ideal, and the First street photographer lives up to that ideal always. And his charges for his professional artistry and portraits are most reasonable at all times.

Today the Rounds studio offers a surprisingly low price magnet for its finest work, for a short time only—$5 per dozen portraits. This offer is only made possible by the advantageous location of the famous Rounds studio, quaintly attractive in its famous garden beauty setting, as many spring and summer visitors know.

Mr. Rounds specializes in portraits of little children, as well as pictures of elders. The beautiful studio, phone number is 3418. The photographer makes pictures in family homes, halls, reception places, outdoors, indoors, on water and shore—anywhere, any time, always anxious to please and to respond to the commands of patrons who want faultless photography work finished at the very lowest possible cost.

MAHONEY GARAGES HANDILY LOCATED

Mahoney garages have always been known for best and quickest service, day and night, 365 days in the year, which means always and any old time. Modern parking stations, large storage barns and equipped in modern way—service always—these make up but a small part of the Mahoney offerings to automobilists all, that has spread the reputation of the well known adjunct of Lowell's automotive business far and near.

The Mahoney famous garages are two in number—the popular and handy station of great size and excellent accommodations at First street, and the brand new and good sized Central street garage, where you can drive right in on your own power, day and night.

The First street automobile garage, parking place, storage and service station has the main entrance on the thoroughfare, the new Lawrence boulevard, with commodious exits on Second street. Motorists can drive in and through without turning around, and there is ample room and never any blockades. The garage throughout is fireproof and equipped with everything broad of to take care of a motorist's wants.

The Central street garage is today one of the busiest places in the Lowell motor world. There are three floors, all used day and night, and no elevators, oddly enough but true. You drive in on your own power to either floor. Ample arrangements are made for free movement of cars in any floor.

Each garage advertises "service" every minute of the day or night. Washstands are in operation at all hours. The most up-to-date equipment is found in each garage and courteous service is ready for any motorist's waiting in power or ignition trouble.

Success has shown long and brightly on the Mahoney, P. F., the general sole proprietor, and M. F., the alert general manager. It's a pleasure to meet em, as motorists who have never enjoyed Mahoney garage service will learn when employing the First or Central street garages as required.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 15

At that moment Jack heard a peculiar noise. "What's that?" he asked. "Oh, just the rubber band, having its little concert." And then Jack heard Flip barking loudly behind some nearby bushes. He ran up to where his dog was and peered through the bushes. What a surprise!

Out in a little open space stood a number of little rubber bands. They were leaning first one way and then another. Jack then realized that as they stood there the wind blew past them and caused them to shiver. And this shivering of the rubber band was making a peculiar singing sound.

Jack watched them for a moment and then decided to join their party. As soon as he walked into the open space there was a wild scramble. Never before had these little rubber bands seen a boy, and Jack's appearance scared them. One by one they took a little jump and bounced away. (Continued.)

LENT IN THE HOLY LAND

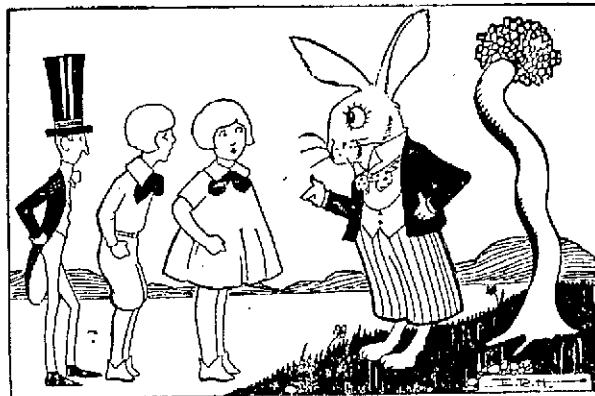

GETSEMANE, WHERE JESUS SUFFERED AND WAS BETRAYED has been continuously maintained as a shrine since the fourth century. The Franciscan Order is now in charge of the garden on the lower slope of the Mount of Olives. The olive tree in the center is the oldest in existence in the garden, and is said to date back to the eventful night when Christ and his disciples went there to await the closing events in Christ's earthly life.

OF THE TWINS

THE EASTER BUNNY ARRIVES

"DID YOU SEE A CHOCOLATE RABBIT WITH ONE EAR?"

A very unexpected person made a visit to Doofunny Land. You would think he'd be too awfully busy right at this time to go to such a far-away country, but there he was, long ears and short tail and all. It was the Easter Bunny.

Nancy and Nick and Mister Fuzz Wuzz met him on the road, peering this way and that as though he was looking for something. "How do you do?" he said, "did you see a chocolate rabbit with one ear, and a hollow hen?"

Mister Fuzz Wuzz laughed. "With one ear and a hollow hen? What did he want with a hollow hen?"

"It's no time for joking," said the Easter Bunny. "I asked you if you had seen a hollow hen and a one-eared chocolate rabbit?"

"Well, why didn't you say so?" exclaimed Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "You said a rabbit with one ear and a hollow hen?"

"Oh, shush!" said the newcomer. "I haven't time to waste. My Easter baskets are all ready but one, and it was ready, too, but when I had my back turned to get some dry eggs to put into the basket, the bunny and hen skipped off. All that was left was one of the bunny's ears and a few crumbs of maple sugar off the hen. I've been to Sugar Plum Land, but they are not there, and to Toy Land, but they are not there either! Doofunny Land was the only place I could think of after that so I came here. Are you sure you didn't see them?"

"No, we didn't," said the Twins.

"And I didn't," said Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "However, there are a lot of people in Doofunny Land who haven't asked yet. Come along, Bunny, we'll go with you."

"See a bunny and a chicken?" exclaimed the patient-leather cat. "Nope, I didn't. Did you, friend dog?" For the cat and dog had made it up and were now living peacefully.

"Nope!" said the dog. "But I like chocolate. I'm sorry I didn't. And I like maple sugar, too."

"Did I see a chocolate bunny and a maple-sugar hollow hen? No, I didn't!" And he giggled his long horse-hair whiskers. "Where did you say you left the basket with the chocolate ear in it? It might make a mess."

"Never mind where I left it," said the Easter Bunny sharply. "That's one reason I wish to find the runaways. Before they can tell my secrets. And just before taking the baskets around to the children's houses, I always warn the basket people not to tell, either."

"Well, I didn't see either of them," squeaked the mouse, running away.

"See a rabbit and hen?" cried all the Humpty Dumpty Cuckoo animals. "No, we didn't, but we wish we had!"

And the way they licked their lips made the Easter Bunny shiver.

"I think I'll be going," he said hastily, thanking Mister Fuzz Wuzz and the Twins. "I'm sure the bunny and the hen were wiser than I was to stay away from such appetites."

"Why, that's what chocolate bunnies and sugar hens are for," laughed Nancy, "and I hope you will find them, so the child for whom the basket is intended won't be disappointed."

"That's so," laughed the bunny amiably. "But I don't mind the children eating them."

AUTO INSURANCE

The scope of the insurance company at the present time is exceptionally large. There are hundreds of different kinds of personal and property insurance and while the T. C. Lee Co. is prepared to sign almost any kind of insurance it is specializing in auto insurance.

Auto insurance is becoming a greater necessity every day because of the huge daily increase in auto registrations. There is every indication that the number of autos on the road this summer will be almost twice as large as that of last summer. Under these conditions even the most careful driver is liable to accidents and the best protection offered is that offered by the insurance companies of the T. C. Lee Co.

Because of the low rates of insurance at the T. C. Lee Co. it is possible for everyone to insure their car without feeling that they have been imposed upon and the promptness with which all claims are adjusted will plainly indicate why the T. C. Lee Co. has been so successful in their field.

WAMEST LODGE

At the regular meeting of Wamest lodge last night, the second rank was worked on one candidate and preparations completed for the working of the third rank on three candidates at the next meeting. The "Go-get-em" committee reported on the joint smoker held Wednesday evening. Brother Woessner, leader of the band, announced that a concert is to be given at the Battle Home, Thursday evening, for the benefit of brothers at the institution. All bandmen are requested to take the Broadway car at 7:31 p.m. next Thursday evening.

LOWELL LEAGUE OF
CATHOLIC WOMEN

Tomorrow afternoon at 8 o'clock in Liberty hall, Memorial Auditorium, an open meeting will be held under the auspices of the Lowell League of Catholic Women. The civic committee of the league, of which Miss Eva Blanchard is chairman, will have general supervision of the meeting. Arrangements have been made for an address by Arthur L. Ryan of this city on "The Constitution and What It Means." The general public is invited to attend.

A successful food sale was held under League auspices in Gagnon's in the success of the affair were Mrs. M. J. Sharkey, Mrs. William Keown, Mrs. Martin Maher, Mrs. Fred Lamoureux, Mrs. A. E. O'Hair, Miss Blanche Doyle, Miss Mary Wood and Miss Margaret Connell. The delicious cake donated by Friend Bros. was won by Mrs. Fred Lamoureux.

THREE LOWELL
MEN INDICTED

The Middlesex county grand jury has returned indictments against three Lowell men, Earl O. Lyseth, Antonio Goulet, and Thomas Novoska. Lyseth is charged with manslaughter, being the piloted driver of the automobile which struck and caused the death of Gustaf A. Forsberg in Middlesex street on the night of Feb. 15.

Goulet is indicted on charges of assault and robbery in a Tilden street drug store.

Novoska is indicted on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny in the night time, the building of Tarkim Novoska, a Gerham street tailor, and stealing several suits of clothes.

LOCAL TEXTILE OUTLOOK

Stability of Lowell Textile
Industrial Securities Causes
Favorable Comment

Disturbing factors in the textile cloth distributing channels of the country and world at large, when long continuing and bringing in their trail discouraging conditions in the world of finance where these securities are handled in transfer leading marks large and small, have not greatly affected any of the stocks bearing familiar Lowell industrial names thus far in the present period of general business stagnation.

Prophets of the financial work, watching the fluctuation of "big business" securities in the stock exchange, undisturbed securities and auction markets, have no trouble in finding the pulse of public sentiment during periods of such business and dwindling profits. Not every stock market wisecracker guesses right, even in prosperous times, and the job comes a bit harder these days when one tries to find out what brokers handling textile securities think about the present and future values of those securities.

The Sun has endeavored to ascertain from different quarters, a comprehensive idea of the situation as it stands today in the intimate quarter of the individual investor. As is generally known, probably, thousands of shares of Lowell textile mill stocks are owned everywhere, but more particularly in New England and in Lowell heavily, by men and women as well as trustees of estates, many of the holdings having been in the same families for scores of years and prized highly.

If the local textile conditions today were in any way alarming, which they are not, if long-time investors and holders of well known Lowell mill shares were convinced that dividends on familiar "best stocks" were in danger of annihilation in the future so far as the "quarterlies" were concerned; if, indeed, the majority of stockholders in Lowell textile industrial establishment that might be mentioned, did not harbor a feeling that a brighter day is coming and coming before very long—it would be expected very naturally that this would be the time to begin to dispose of small holdings slowly and "get out from under."

Only a calamity could cause this action, however, and there is nothing of this kind in the offing. All textile men agree, though prosperity cannot come in a day and this is not the first time that Lowell textile manufacturers have had to while away their time in looking over the books, adjusting plant equipment and planning for the future, when the natural law of supply and demand take the upward swing once more.

Better Times Ahead

Textile critics are confident that the new turn of affairs in the world textile is not far off. Some of them say so openly, but they won't be quick to bet. They won't admit they know or can predict, but indications are apparently today in some quarters locally that before 1925 wings in for another 12-month journey, Lowell mill wheels will be turning and machinery humming steadily than they are today.

Returning to the textile corporation securities, it would be hardly fair to compare the stability of stock quotations of today with those of the period before the World War. Conditions at that time were far different than they are today. Rather would it be better to show how Lowell mill shares have stood in the daily unlisted stock lists, provided by many banking houses handling exclusively New England industrial stocks.

Very few Lowell textile shares have been hit hard by the present stagnation in mill production operations. That is a fact that cannot be disputed. Although other stocks and bonds in many other industries have fallen pretty low in the quotation lists, with general business discouragingly small in many quarters far and wide, the standard, favorite, good-dividend-paying textile stocks of New England have been holding their own in good shape, even today.

Rarely has Lowell long established mill share moved very far down the list when small lots have been offered for sale. Indeed, Lowell shares are not the common thing on any security market today and have not been for a long time. Lowell banking houses buying or selling Lowell mill shares in odd lot quantities, are authorities and familiar with the market demands for such holding values. The Sun has been informed today, as has been the case ever since the close of the World war,

Only Few More Days Before Major League Umpires Will Call Out "Play Ball"

RESOUNDING CRACK OF BASE HIT WILL BE HEARD ON TUESDAY

American and National League Teams Home From Southern Climes to Pry Off Lid for 1924 Season

—Great Speculation on Eve of Opening Day

NEW YORK, April 12. (By the Associated Press.)—The resounding crack of the base hit and the shrill cry of the bleachers, echoed but dimly from southern climes for the past few weeks, have reached their native habitat and within a few days major league fandom will thrill to the arrival of that American institution—opening day.

The battle between rookie and veteran, the long exhibition grind and the arduous conditioning processes, virtually are completed. The hopes of a vast majority of recruits, inevitably, have been blasted and they are on their way back to more or less obscurity. Veterans are rounding into shape and talking stock of the chances of their favorites in the promises in the coming season. The most keenly contested races in recent years.

By today, many of the big league outfits will be on their home grounds. The first of the season will be the American league, which will inaugurate its 26th season and the National league, close to the half century mark, will open its 49th.

Wherever fans gather the "dopesters" are discussing the question that looms largest on the diamond horizon—will the New York Giants and Yankees repeat? Pennants of the last three seasons flutter from metropolitan flagpoles and among these "dopesters" there is a majority opinion that McGraw and Huggins will make it four straight, a feat which would find no parallel in American or National league history.

Seven times in the National league and twice in the American, including the latest New York triumphs, clubs have gathered three victories in a row, but that mark never has been surpassed. Back in the second old days, Boston won four straight games in the National association from 1872 to 1876, while St. Louis duplicated this achievement from 1882 to 1885, in the American association, but these were outside so-called organized baseball. But even these most optimistic of the chances of New York's veteran club and its rivals, however, concede that they face a difficult path. Observers who have gauged pre-season form most closely believe the world's champion Yankees, riding the crest of their brilliant triumph of last fall, will be the most formidable of the two Gotham entries, but even so, they will encounter sterner foes.

Tigers and Indians Struggle
Ty Cobb's Detroit Tigers, somewhat of a disappointment in 1923, appear stronger in the box and around second base than a year ago, and with a new pitcher, Cleveland's hard-hitting, experienced machine, look as the Huggins' most dangerous rivals. The Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox belong in the dark corner of the spring's "dopesters."

St. Louis Series Opens
ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 12.—The return of George Sisler to major league baseball this afternoon in the opening game of the city series between the Browns and Cardinals after a year's layoff, caused by sinus trouble, impairing his vision, marks the initial attempt of a former pupil to defeat his teacher.

Manager Sisler matches wits with Manager Branch Rickey, the man most responsible for his major league career. Rickey, when managing the Browns, spotted Sisler, then starring with the University of Michigan, and later coached him.

In today's game, the Cardinals strive to break the record of six years' standing at the hands of the Browns. With "Fuzzy" Clemens on the mound and Milton Stock still a holdout, the Cardinals are weakened in their catching department and at the third sack, but otherwise present a squad practically unchanged from the 1923 season. Lester Bell is scheduled to appear on the mound today, where he has appeared during the spring season.

The Browns also have a modified problem in third base. Frank Ellerbe is depended upon to settle the question with Gene Robinson ready to take up the burden.

With Sisler back on the first sack, the Cardinals face a veteran team.

Red Sox Win Again
BOSTON, April 12.—Boston's American league club maintained its domination for 1924 southern trip yesterday, by winning another contest from the Louisville American association club, 5 to 3 at Louisville, Ky. Yesterday, Bobby Veach proved his ability to hit left-handed pitching by banging one home run off the delivery of Nick Cullum, ranking American association southern and hitting a single. The Red Sox were scheduled to meet the Indianapolis club of the American association in Indianapolis today.

A scheduled game between Senators and Washington Senators was called off for the second successive day as a result of rainfall at Spartanburg, S. C., yesterday. "Stuffy" Smith, Boston's first baseman, says that he is two strides faster this year than he was last, on the trip from the plate to first, performances in the south indicate. Donahue says that the Sox are developing a hitherto unsuspected speed.

Indians Play Indians
CINCINNATI, O., April 12.—The Reds came home today to wind up a rather hectic training season with games this afternoon and tomorrow against the Cleveland Indians at the stadium. The Indians played 13 games in the south, of which they won 10, lost eight and tied one.

Pete Donahue will start today's game as a final preparation for opening of the championship season next Tuesday, when he is slated to pitch. Pittsburgh Pirates, Ohio probably will go to the mound for the Indians.

Yanks Back in Stadium
NEW YORK, April 12.—The New York Americans will play in Yankee Stadium today for the first time since they became champions of the swatting universe, in the spring series with Brooklyn which closes with games here today and tomorrow. The team arrived this morning from Richmond, Va., where war grounds yesterday caused the cancellation of the last southern game.

The Giants invade Consistory park at Chicago and tomorrow for final games with the White Sox, before coming here to open the season with Brooklyn on Tuesday. The Sox, after having been wallowed with consistency in the south, perked up as they neared home and trimmed the Giants at Indianapolis yesterday, 4-1.

McGrath experimented with another infield while Elmer Grah remained on the bench with a lame back. George Kelly played third with effectiveness if not grace, and Bill Terry remained on first base and contributed a double and triple of the seven hits made off Ted Blackhawk, who pitched the entire game for the Sox.

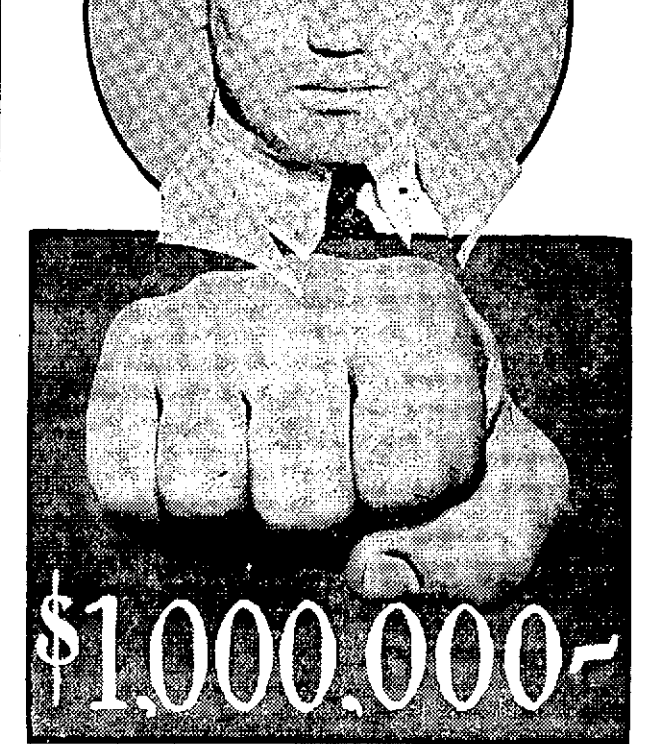

Jack Bentley went the route for the Giants and allowed only eight hits, but these were judiciously mixed by Chicago.

Change Assumes Charge
CHICAGO, April 12.—Frank Chance, bronzed and healthy, today assumed delayed charge of the Chicago Americans, whose destiny he was guiding as manager during the season opening here Tuesday. The "Peerless" leader arrived yesterday and gets his first sight of hirelings in action today. In the first of a two game exhibition series with the New York Giants.

Chicago fans were hopeful the rain and snow of yesterday would not interfere with today's game and a rousing welcome for Chance and the team were planned for their first appearance of the year on the home lot. "Sparky" Adams, shortstop of the Chicago Nationals, snatched victory from the Kansas City Blues yesterday with a triple in the tenth inning, the Cubs' third straight victory over the American association champions.

Bruins Play at Washington
WASHINGTON, April 12.—The Boston Braves were the guests of the Washington Americans here today, to take part in the informal opening of the major league baseball season. The Senators' home grounds, Walter Johnson, the tentative hurling assignment, for the Griffins. The barnstorming contest scheduled yesterday between the Braves and Senators at

Dempsey and the $1,000,000 Fight

BY JOE WILLIAMS
Step this way, ladies and gents, and gaze upon the world's first million-dollar fight, the property of John Harrison Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world.

Please note that aside from his rather robust dimensions and hard, leathery aspects, this list is not an unusual specimen.

You have seen larger lists on linen and from workers. Now that you recall it, the butcher's list that yields the cleaver at the corner store is certainly more terrific.

And yet here is a list—this one of Dempsey's—of towers, joints and knuckles above all the fists in the history of the world. For it is the first list that ever earned a million dollars.

What Other Plans Draw Down
There have been other remarkable lists in the past. The ham-like list of the great John L., which wrote the introductory chapters of man-fighting in America, the list of prizefighters of Fitzsimmons, the high-speed gear list of Corbett and the rock-rubbed list of the primitive Jeffries.

But none of these lists had more than an elementary training in the art of money-making, and they were handicapped further by having flourished in the days of the prizefight. The Dempsey list has made almost twice as much as all the other heavyweight champions combined.

Sullivan and Corbett fought for a purse of $25,000. Corbett and Fitz fought Jim Hall for $10,000 in 1913, the largest purse offered up to that time. Offered is a better word than paid, for when Fitz went to collect the check was worthless.

Millions Yet to Be Made
Jeffries got $10,000 and a bonus of $10,000 for coming out of retirement to fight a Willie bout, and the probability of $100,000 for fighting Dempsey at Toledo.

Rockard promised that fight and said he'd never risk offering such a sum to any fighter again.

Since then, however, Rockard has paid Dempsey something like a million dollars in cash for meeting Brennan, Carpenter and Fitz, and he is now eager to pay him another million, and then some, to renew the Fitz fight.

Another Fitz fight will draw big, a Willis fight will draw even bigger.

The million-dollar list is on the threshold of a golden harvest. It has already brought Dempsey a million in the prize money, and it is now bringing him another million in the motion picture studios by virtue of a recent contract. Pending bouts promise still another million or two.

The 23-year-old champion has a chance to run his bank balance up to five million before he quits, or is knocked off.

AMATEUR BASEBALL
The Maples will meet the Strong Cardinals on April 19th. Last year the Cardinals beat the Maples, and the Cardinals claimed the championship in their class. The Maples were 12 out of 21 games played. The Maples are ready to meet all comers at any time. Please send challenges through this paper.

The Tyler A.C. Juniors are ready to take the field in the amateur ranks this season and are out to meet all comers. They would like to play the Tyler A.C. Juniors with them last year, along with Burns, Comer, Lines, Shumers, Tully, Leter and Agency.

The Walker A.C. is looking for games with the American Juniors at the 8th grade level of the Washington school preferred. Call 6857-W and ask for James, between the hour of 5 and 6 p. m.

The following circles are requested to report for practice every evening next week at Franklin park: El Allen, Gendron, Larson, Mahoney, McHenry, Smith, Smiley, Walker, Watson, Worthen and Shavin H. Manning is netting manager.

The following members of the Harvard A.C. practiced on the Charlesvard A.C. grounds yesterday afternoon: Gath, Moylan, Murphy, Boyle, Carroll, Sullivan, Gleason, McNulty, O'Keefe, Baxter and Sarrle.

The Elks would like to hear from the Mohawks as soon as possible. The Elks played this morning. Games are wanted with 11-13-year-old teams. Answer through this paper.

The Emeralds challenge the Maples for a game to be played April 15, on the North common. They also challenge the Packets, Grand A. C. Cardinals, Buckhorns. If challenges are accepted call 652-11, between 8 and 9 p. m. The Emeralds would like to know why the Buffaloes are ducking them.

HAMBONE KELLEY WINS Breaks Left Hand But Manages to Stop Larsen in Sixth Round

Bitter Rivals in Terrific Battle—Larsen Collapsed on Way to Dressing Room

BOSTON, April 12.—Hambone Kelley's mighty left prevailed over Wolf Larsen, the rugged longshoreman boxer, last night, forcing the latter to stop in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round number.

From the opening bout until the sixth there was action. Then the Wolf standing on his feet up against the ropes, with his arms outstretched, practically admitted he was done.

Larsen, who came in, walked to his corner, but after getting through the ropes on his way to the dressing room he collapsed in his manager's arms and had to be carried the rest of the way.

The victor, sitting in his corner, knew he had been in a fight. Kelley was pretty near the finish himself. The South Boston boxer was writhing in pain from a broken hand, his left, while around the midriff bright red welts told their own story.

Coincident with the start of the baseball season, the major league scout will dust off his gunshoes and start on his annual ivory hunting expedition.

The baseball scout has become one of the most valuable assets of a big league ball club. On the success of a baseball Sherlock Holmes to dig up promising material hinges the success of a club.

In these days of high tension baseball and close races, the scouts are compelled to work fast and often use snap judgment.

That is perhaps one reason why some players, who look anything but promising material, get a chance. The snap judgment of the scouts has resulted in his picking one.

The baseball scouts are of different types. There are some who think to earn their salary they must dig up a lot of recruits. Others who work on the theory they are saving their money for a rainy day.

I know one major league scout who in years of service didn't send over a dozen players to the club that employed him. A majority of these made good.

On a number of cases his opinion kept him club owner from bidding for a reputed star who never amounted to anything.

Just what a tough proposition a big league scout is up against was proved to me in a recent conversation with one of the best ivory hunters in the American league.

The scout had been detailed to watch a certain player in the Southern Michigan league. The organization is now known as the Michigan-Ontario league. The player in question was with the Jackson (Mich.) club.

It seems Saginaw, Mich., was the opposing club and to the best of the scout's recollection, Robbins was the pitcher for that team.

Robbins shut out the Jackson team without a hit. The player, the scout came to watch was an easy victim for Robbins' curves.

Instead of resting on his glory, Robbins came back the next day and again pitched a shutout game in which not a hit was made. He struck out 14, the record in second was scratching fanning three times.

The scout was convinced the outfielder who had been recommended to him wasn't ready, but he was up in the air about this fellow who was good enough to pitch two no-hit games in succession.

"Snap judgment told me to sign the pitcher on the strength of those two no-hit games. Only the fact that a fancy price was asked caused me to pass up the proposition," explained the scout.

"I didn't like the pitching motion of Robbins, and I could see that he was a bad pitcher. However, he had been averaging a strikeout an inning for about 30 games.

"Finally decided I didn't want the pitcher on the outfielder and went on my way, but not without considerable misgivings for fear I had pulled a bone.

"Guess I didn't, as Robbins, as far as I know, never reached the majors. However, those two no-hit games were an awful bait for my snap judgment."

Y.M.C.A. Jrs. will wind up their most successful basketball season next week in two hard games playing the Boston Braves club Tuesday and the Athenians Thursday of the Y.M.C.A. As these games are city league games, the Juniors will not risk the junior amateur title which they proudly possess by virtue of their defeat of the Lowell Juniors club.

The Juniors have lost a valuable man in Arthur Kotzen, crack center, who is ill and is out for the remainder of the season. Another valuable man, also out for the season, Harry Cohen, sub-center, will attempt to fill Kotzen's place for the final two games. Smith, a member of last year's quintet, is expected back in the junior lineup.

CITY LEAGUE BASKETBALL
Both the Eagles and Athenians are not able to play on Saturday evenings. Both have asked that their games with the Trojans and Unity be postponed. The Trojan-Eagle game for April 17th, and the Athenian-Unity game for April 22nd. There will be no games this Saturday evening.

Next Tuesday the Boys' club plays the Y.M.C.A. Jrs., and the Eagles play the Spallans.

How to be Healthy

BY LILLIAN LEITZEL
World's Greatest Aerial Gymnast

These exercises aren't suggested merely for those who think they are a basketball and climbing the bag, strength and muscles, and the spirit, circulation and grace. It is the spirit, that counts, not the trimmings.

My mother is past 57. Yet she is lithe and graceful enough to do her turn in the circus. Her health is perfect. Her secret? Exercise.

No strict rules of abstinence need be laid down. If perchance you like smoking, smoke, but not to excess. Don't let the faddist worry you. Act as you please, healthfully and with vim and you'll never have to worry about dieting, daily dozens or any of the other or bans which make so many persons' lives miserable.

Australia was sunk today, 20 miles off Sydney, in accordance with the naval program under the Washington treaty. Laden with hundreds of floral tributes from the populace, the warship was towed to the scuttling point by tugs, accompanied by two Australian and five British cruisers with officials aboard. There her son valves were opened and she slowly settled beneath the water, while the cruisers fired salutes and airplanes circled overhead.

QUEEN ANNE PERIOD FURNITURE

Beginning of the 17th century introduced a complete change from the English Renaissance. More graceful, curved lines mark this period. Chairs, formerly stiff and uncomfortable, all the back, upholstering is used. Curved splat-back chair is a characteristic. Curved cabriole leg with a carved shell-like knee and animal's paw grasping a ball at the foot, is another. The end table of walnut, above, is typical. Part of the William and Mary influence carried over into this period, which predominated to the end of the reign of George II. in 1760.

Gypsy Queen Buried With Pomp

won out every time. As a result, last moment changes were made; the body of the queen was placed with its head to the east. "So she will see as we pass and can watch the rising of the sun," insisted King John, when other arrangements had been made known to him. Whereupon the professional mourners began to chant a solemn requiem; the professional "wailers" then wailed their loudest; the big brass band that had been brought over from Baltimore, played its loudest; and the crowd of gypsies rocked back and forth, gesticulating and jehubing. A police guard of fair size was quickly augmented from a nearby station, and after some hours, delay the burial was completed according to the prescribed rites of the tribe. During the ceremony a host of sacramental wine was drunk over the queen; King John, who took his stand at the head of the grave as the casket was lowered took from an attendant a little metal box of incense, which, burned slowly at the casket, found its place in the big incense burner excavated. A heavy stone slab was then placed on top and cemented into place; then a last time the crowd of gypsies, most of whom were in native costume, sang a requiem with wild gypsy abandon and the dead queen was left to sleep her 3000 years' sleep. Then followed a joyful feast at the home of one of the gypsies for the men and women of high degree. Queen Eleanor was born in Asia, but King John was born in Brazil and the tribe in therefore regarded as a Brazilian tribe. Its headquarters are between Baltimore and Washington on the old Bladenburg road and hereafter, whenever the tribe, in its nomadic wanderings passes the burial place of the queen, it will stop and render homage to the little brown lady who lies in state, waiting the passage of 3000 years to again come into her own, and rise in jeweled splendor to greet faithful subjects.

Presidential Candidates

There is no change in the presidential political situation so far as Washington comment goes. The republican nomination seems assured to President Coolidge, with his running mate to be picked by him when the proper time comes. It is expected a man from the far or the middle west, of progressive ideas, will be selected in order to give balance to the ticket and win for the republicans, votes that might otherwise go to the third party if one is formed.

The democrats have a wide field to select from both for the top of the ticket and the second place. They, too, will determine the vice-pres-

AUTO TOOL CHEST
AWAITS OWNER

Detective captain Patria has an auto tool chest containing about $50 worth of tools awaiting a claimant at police station. Police took the chest from juveniles in Middlesex street last night when they couldn't explain satisfactorily how they obtained it.

A good 324 mounted spare tire was also taken up by the police at the same time. Owners may have same by proving ownership.

BILLERICA GRANGE

Senator Charles F. Howard of Reading was a guest and speaker at Thursday evening's meeting of Billerica Grange in Gardner Parker hall, Billerica Centre. He talked at length on problems involving anthracite coal supply and demand. Mrs. Marie L. Gage, master of the grange, presided at a business session of the order. Mrs. Adolph Simonds was leader of the entertainment program presented in the lower hall.

MORTALITY RATE LOWER

Infectious diseases reported were: diphtheria, one; scarlet fever, five; measles, seven; tuberculosis, five.

BIG BUILDING MOVING
JOB COMPLETED

A big moving job was completed this forenoon when a large 2 1/2 story frame building was placed on a lot opposite 28 Rock street after having been moved from its former location at Broadway and Suffolk street.

The building, owned by Mrs. Julius Richards of this city, was formerly occupied as a blacksmith shop and did a flourishing business until the arrival of the auto took the place of horses throughout the city. The owner recently decided the location was too good for the building at the present time and called in John A. Simpson, local contractor, to move it to Rock street.

Mr. Simpson delegated the actual moving work to his foreman, N. J. Powers, an expert building mover. It was Mr. Powers who had charge of moving the old structure of St. Patrick's and the Sacred Heart parish within the past year.

With a crew of three or four men, one horse and the necessary rollers and cable, Mr. Powers knocked away the old foundation from under the building and placed jacks and rollers in its place. Wednesday afternoon the captain, equipped with a steel cable—a new idea in building moving in New England and one brought here by Mr. Simpson after a trip through the west—was hitched to the house and the horse hitched to the cable and given the order to start.

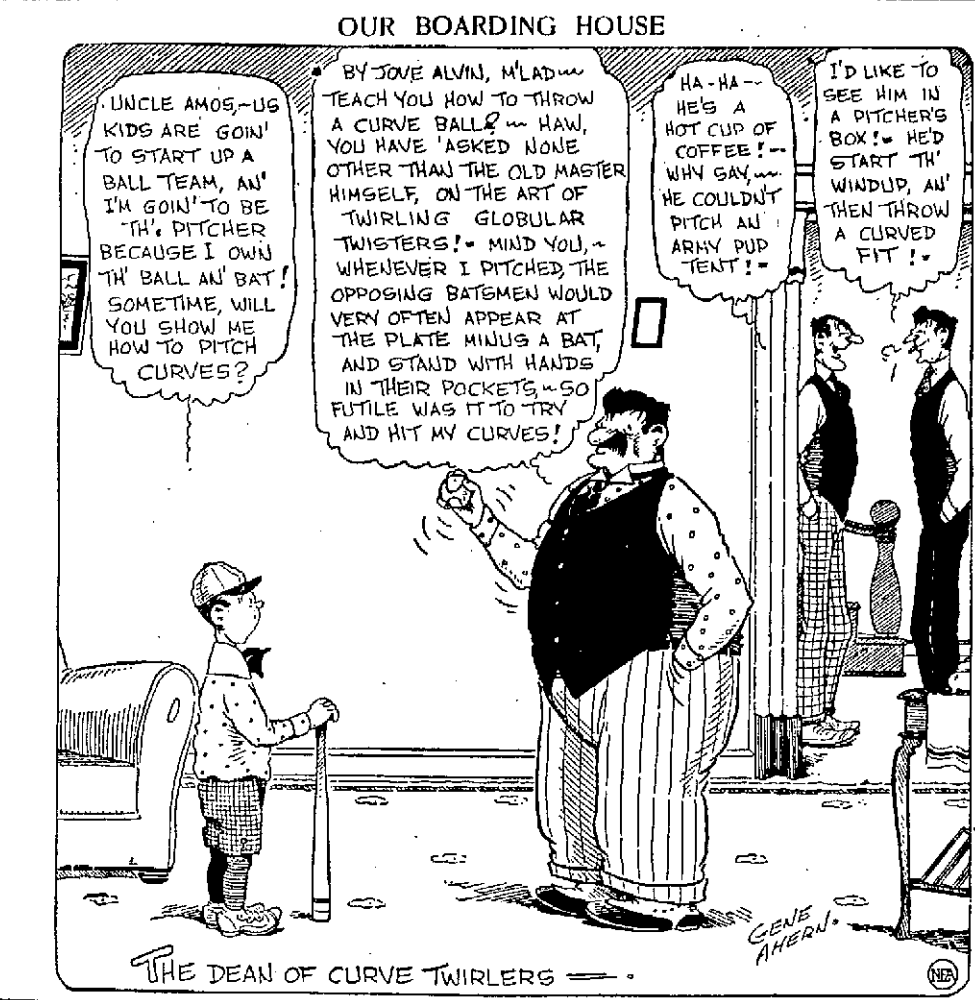

The first move of the building was with great interest by the moving crew. It moved slowly onto the rollers and to the relief of the crew it was seen that the frame of the building was able to stand the strain, it had not "cracked" at any point.

Led by a gang of electric light corporation linemen who cut the wires in the way of the building and then immediately repaired them, the structure started on its first journey in the many years it had been in existence. Traffic on Suffolk street was detoured around the building as it occupied the whole width of the street and often overlapped onto the sidewalk.

Down Suffolk street went the strange procession, the captain and horse in front, the building following and the moving crew scrambling from in back of the building to the front, placing rollers for it to move on. Considerable progress was made Wednesday. Thursday and Friday were repetitions of Wednesday afternoon with the house moving slowly but majestically down Suffolk street, across Grinnell-Manning square and then to Rock street. The road it travelled was rough and this delayed the work a few hours, but no delays were met with and this morning early the building had completed three-fourths of a mile and was over its new foundation and the moving crew had begun pulling out the wooden rollers and placing in their stead jacks on which it will stand until the stone foundation is completed.

TO START WORK ON DOUBLE-RAIL CURVE

The street department will commence work on digging up the pavement at the corner of Dutton and Merrimack streets next Monday, in preparation for the laying of a new double-rail curve there by the street railway company, according to information received by Manager Maurice E. McCormick from Superintendent Harry Doherty of the street department today. Mr. McCormick said further that the street railway track gang would start laying track Tuesday or Wednesday and should complete the work in seven days. Following the track work, the street department will re-lay the paving and it is estimated the whole job will be finished within two weeks. The new double rail curve will do away with the present single rail curve and cross-over which has been considered an impediment to the efficient handling of traffic at the corner for some time. The change was brought about at the request of the city council at a meeting last fall.

Annual Drill by High School Boys

JUDGES OF SQUAD AND INDIVIDUAL DRILLS

The tenth annual drill night and gymnastic exhibition of the boys of the high school in the annex last night was a most praiseworthy exemplification of what the school is doing along the line of physical education, both within and without the regiment. The drill shed was well filled with pupils, parents and friends and the program was such as to call forth unstinted applause from beginning to end. It was an excellent mixture of military tactics and gymnastic evolutions and stunts, with a little boxing thrown in for good measure and those who had it in charge should be perfectly satisfied with the results attained. Much of the interest centered in the individual prize drill and the squad drills. The former event was put on in two sections and the prize was won by Sgt. Chesley, Corp. Edward Allen and Sergt. Frank Powers. They were presented old, silver and bronze medals by had no defense. The next case called was a double action of tort brought by Eugene A. Jamin and Mary Dube against Christopher Mooney of Lawrence. The plaintiffs asked to recover for injuries alleged to have resulted from an automobile collision on the Lawrence boulevard in October, 1920. They charge the defendant with negligence in operating his machine. Dennis J. Murphy for the plaintiffs and Francis D. Harrigan of Boston for the defendant.

ORDERED VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF

Verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $932 was ordered by Judge Richard W. Irwin in superior court yesterday afternoon in the action of contract brought by Abraham Wolf against Alexander Perkins and Fred Wolf, all of Lowell. The case involved a promissory note. Quia Howard Rogers and Bennett Silverblatt for the plaintiff and Farley & Tierney for the defendant Perkins. Fred Wolf had no defense.

GOV. PINCHOT SUGGESTED THE EMPLOYMENT OF HENEY

Sen. Watson Says Pennsylvania Executive Had Thrust Himself Into Controversy Between Sen. Couzens and
Sec. Mellon—Prompted Mellon's Letter to Coolidge

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania who has sharply criticized national prohibition enforcement, suggested the employment of Francis J. Heney as counsel for the internal revenue bureau, Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, chairman of the committee, declared today in the senate.

Senator Watson said he was not at liberty to repeat conversations, but that he had learned upon "indisputable evidence" that Gov. Pinchot had thrust himself into the controversy between Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, prosecutor for the committee, and Secretary Mellon.

"And I know what that meant," Senator Watson said in referring to Gov. Pinchot.

Mr. Watson said he had informed Secretary Mellon that Gov. Pinchot had suggested "Heney's employment" and that it was this information which prompted Mellon's letter to President Coolidge, transmitted yesterday to the senate.

"He knew and I know," Senator Watson said, "that from that moment the purpose of the inquiry became destructive and not constructive."

Mr. Watson said he had signed subpoenas in blank at Senator Couzens's request and that the latter had sent to him last Tuesday a letter addressed to Secretary Mellon asking for "a complete list of all corporations in which the Secretary held stock and the amount of stock he held in each."

"I refused to sign that letter," Senator Watson said, adding that he informed Senator Couzens he regarded this as none of the committee's business.

Later Senator Watson said he discussed with Senator Couzens and Prof. Thomas Adams, committee advisers, the future course of the committee and told them "the investigation had gone far enough to show there is nothing in it."

Attempt to Weaken Coolidge
Senator Watson declared the attack upon Secretary Mellon was designed as a careful attempt to weaken Coolidge.

"Mellon is not being attacked for Mellon's sake," Senator Watson said. "But in the effort to get the president. The whole thing in my opinion is this: If they can weaken the secretary in any way, they weaken the tax bill he pro-

FILES ANSWER TO INDICTMENT

Authority of Senate to Ask Him Questions Attacked by
Harry F. Sinclair

Power—Evidence Reserved
For Courts

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The authority of the senate to ask him the questions which resulted in contempt proceedings against him, was attacked by Harry F. Sinclair today in a demurrer filed here in answer to his contempt indictment.

The demurrer followed in the main the legal contentions advanced by the Sinclair lawyers when the off magazine and issues of Tea Pot Dome last appeared before the senate oil committee and refused to reply to a long string of questions on the ground that the investigators were without authority and that his evidence should be reserved for the courts.

Sinclair pleaded not guilty to the contempt charge immediately after the indictment was returned two weeks ago. The proceedings are entirely separate from the grand jury investigation of the naval oil leasing program itself, which will begin before another grand jury here next week.

Investigation to Go On
There are still many leads to be developed in the senate inquiry into the administration of the department of justice and the investigation will continue for at least six weeks "despite the opposition confronting the committee," Senator Wheeler declared today.

"The ultimate results of the committee's course," the senator said, "will depend on the attitude of the new attorney general toward a reorganization of the department."

City Council President Plans
Personal Conference With
Civil Service Commission

Matter of $50,000 Appropriation for Relief of Unemployment Still Undecided

If time is available next Monday, City Council President James J. Gallagher will go to the civil service commission at the state house in Boston and inquire why the city has received no reply from its request for a conference with some member of the commission or a representative on the matter of civil service regulations in connection with a proposed appropriation of $50,000 for the relief of local unemployment.

President Gallagher goes to Cambridge on Monday to report for jury duty, but if he has opportunity in the afternoon will make it a point to call on the commission and attempt to find out what the city may expect from the commission in the matter.

The $50,000 appropriation order was discussed last week at a conference between the board of public service and the finance committee of the city council and at that time it was voted to request the civil service commission to send a member or representative to Lowell for further conference on the question. This conference particularly was for the purpose of ascertaining whether the commission would let down its regulations as to the employment of temporary laborers during the emergency. A letter was immediately sent to the civil service commissioner by Clerk Stephen Flynn, but to date no reply has been received.

BONUS BILL ORDERED REPORTED TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12.—The soldier bonus bill passed by the house was agreed to with minor changes today by the senate finance committee and ordered reported to the senate.

It provides for cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $50 in adjusted service compensation, and for 20-year endowment life insurance policies to others.

Senator Simmons, North Carolina, ranking democrat on the committee, announced he would propose an amendment on the floor of the senate to make full cash payments an option of the bill.

Chairman Smoot said he would report the measure to the senate Monday. No formal vote was taken today. Mr. Smoot announcing the report was ordered by general consent.

An amendment agreed to would permit women who served in the navy and marine corps as seamen to receive the benefits of the measure. This group, numbering about 11,000, was included in the measure passed last session, but was excluded by the house.

No opinion was expressed by the committee as to whether the tax or bonus bill should be taken up first. Chairman Smoot said, however, he expected a move would be made to put the bonus bill ahead, while Senator Simmons declared he would leave such a decision to non-partisan action of the senate.

Leaders of both parties have declared a week probably will be necessary to dispose of the bonus bill and three weeks at least for the tax reduction measure. The bill was passed by the house, 335 to 84 after 40 minutes' debate.

Wheeler Says Challenge to Be Brought Before Full Membership of Senate

Injunction Issued by Judge
Who Formerly Was Partner of Harry Daugherty

CHICAGO, April 12.—Senator Wheeler of Montana, a central figure in the Daugherty investigation, declared today that Mal S. Daugherty, brother of the former attorney general, would be cited for contempt before the senate.

Commenting on the resolution of a sub-committee's visit to Washington courthouse, Ohio, yesterday to take further testimony in the Daugherty case, Mr. Wheeler declared that the challenge to the inquisitorial authority would be brought before the full membership of the senate.

The restraining injunction issued in Ohio against the sub-committee blocking its attempted examination of the books and files of the Midland National bank was granted by a probate judge who formerly was a law partner of Harry Daugherty.

AS TO RADIO SETS AT ISOLATION HOSPITAL

Mayor Donovan takes exception to a statement made by Dr. Smith, superintendent of the isolation hospital, to the effect that any request or estimate for the installation of radio sets at the hospital, appeared in the budget submitted for the maintenance of the institution.

The doctor stated in his testimony before the investigating committee, that he had included the sum of $500 in his budget for this purpose, but that "the item was eliminated under the retrenchment program of the administration." While the mayor does not say whether he would or would not have approved such an item, he objects to the statement made by the doctor as misleading, inasmuch as no mention of radio appeared in the budget. An examination of the hospital budget does not show any item or mention of radio sets.

The lockout is inoperative only at Southampton, where the yards are being kept open for the return of those men willing to go back to work. When the Southampton members of any of the 15 unions involved resume labor, the lockout against their fellow members in other yards will be withdrawn, the employers declare. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 12.—Heavy selling of Standard, which was driven down 3 1/2 points to a new year's low at 56 1/2, unsettled today's stock market, although a number of moderate issues had moved up 1 to 2 points. Selling pressure was concentrated on the motors, new lows being established by Chrysler, Yellow Cab and Chicago Yel. Cab, the last named breaking four points. Special weakness also cropped out in Baldwin, Cuba Cane preferred and American Sugar preferred. The initial bulge apparently was due to an extension of yesterday's late short covering, completion of which was followed by a general outpouring of the part of large operators. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 400,000 shares.

PROPOSALS TO BAR JAPANESE

Take Up Immigration Proposals Which Would, In Effect, Exclude Japanese

WASHINGTON, April 12.—An international issue of grave importance confronted both the senate and house today when they took up with expectations of action before adjournment, the pending immigration proposals which would, in effect, exclude Japanese from the United States.

The house, after disposing of minor amendments to the Johnson bill at a night session, had before it the vigorously contested and Japanese sections and the senate resumed consideration of amendments to its immigration measure having a similar purpose with reference to admission of Japanese.

Japan's formal protest against its exclusion from the list of nations admitted immigration quotas overshadowed the discussion, having been issued yesterday in the note from Ambassador Hishida, warning of "grave consequences" enactment of the Japanese provisions "would invariably bring," and setting forth concretely for the first time the terms of the gentleman's agreement of 1907.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE

Took 35 Ballots in Futile Attempt to Reach Verdict in McCray Trial

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 12.—Disagreement of the jury and its discharge yesterday, marked the end of the trial here of Governor McCray, charged in a county grand jury indictment with embezzlement of $155,000 from the state fund of agriculture. Thirty-five ballots were taken by the jury, which deliberated more than 27 hours, the vote on the last ballot being eight for conviction and four for acquittal.

The governor was tried on the first of 15 indictments returned by the grand jury. Three of the indictments were ruled out by the court. Of these remaining one will be selected on which to try the governor later.

The ending of the trial, which had been in progress since March 17 closed but one chapter of a volume of litigation against McCray, which developed after his financial collapse some time ago and is pending in various courts.

On April 21, he will go on trial in federal court here on charges of conspiracy to violate the national banking laws and using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud.

A petition to have McCray declared a bankrupt, which is being opposed by him, is pending in federal court.

YOUNG STINNES NOW MAGNATE

28-Year-Old Son of German Industrial King Served Rigorous Apprenticeship

Becomes Monarch of One of World's Most Gigantic Industrial Empires

BERLIN, April 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Dr. Edmund Hugo Stinnes, who by the death of his father has suddenly become the monarch of one of the world's most gigantic industrial and commercial empires, is described by his associates as "a youth of engaging personality and winning urbanity."

Although only 28 years old, he served a rigorous technical and commercial apprenticeship under his father's inspiring tutelage and subsequently was graduated from the Charlottenburg Technical school with the degree of doctor of engineering. He enlisted as a volunteer in the World war and advanced to a lieutenant in the aviation corps.

Young Stinnes was constantly at his father's side during the latter's restless and manifold activities of the last five years, and is possessed of a vast fund of knowledge of the mining, smelting and industrial branches of the Stinnes enterprises.

His brother, Hugo Hermann Stinnes, who is a year younger and at present director of the family's shipping interests at Hamburg, also served an extended apprenticeship at home and abroad. He is married and has two children.

Whether the new Stinnes generation will succeed in amplifying or conserving the fortune founded in 1810 by the dead magnate's grandfather, is already stimulating speculation. The bulk of the present huge fortune represents the cumulative work of 20 years of incessant toil and shrewd husbanding by Hugo Stinnes, and current obituaries point out that, like his father, he died young.

ARBOR DAY ON APRIL 26

Gov. Cox Issues Proclamation and Announces a Forest Protection Week

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, April 12.—Saturday, April 26, was designated by Gov. Cox today as Arbor day, while the week beginning Monday, April 21, the governor has decided shall be observed as Forest Protection week.

The governor's proclamation is as follows: "Whether dwelling in urban or rural communities, all of our citizens have a vital concern in conserving our forests and in protecting them from needless destruction. We need wood for shelter and heat. We need forests to stabilize the flow of streams which not only turn wheels of industry, but bring pure drinking water to our cities. We need the cool and quiet of groves where we may seek rest from confusion and turmoil, and we need forests as cover for birds and small wild animals which have shown their friendship and value to men.

"The commonwealth is endeavoring to stimulate the planting and growing of trees. More than 100,000 acres of waste land in Massachusetts are now being reclaimed and planted with forest trees. The commonwealth also has 50,000,000 forest trees in nurseries, to be furnished cities and towns free of cost for town forests. Already 35 municipal forests have been established here, with the promise that many other cities and towns will help in this work of conservation. Although progress has been made, the practical work of conserving our forests must be extended, and it must have the intelligent and sympathetic support of our people. Fire waste no less than wanton destruction must be eliminated, for each year large tracts of timber are devastated by forest fires caused by carelessness of those who frequent the woods.

"Therefore, in obedience to the law of the commonwealth, I designate Saturday, the 26th day of April, as Arbor day, the 25th day of April, as Arbor week, and the week beginning Monday, April 21, as Forest Protection week, and recommend that wherever possible each citizen plant a tree or shrub, and in any event give consideration to the vital need of forest conservation and protection.

Given at the executive chamber, in Boston, this eighth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-eighth.

"CHANNING H. COX."

On the Bill at B. F. Keith's Next Week

NORMA LEYLAND

Jack Inglis and Gene Winchester will appear at the B. F. Keith theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening, with their decidedly snappy conversational act. Jack Adams and Thompson Sisters will also be retained for the day. For the rest, the bill will be made up of entirely new acts, with Shepard & Ott, comedians, holding down a choice spot in the lineup. Gordon & Spain are mixers of music and good comedy, and Helen Vincent, singer and comedienne, and Collins & Burke, purveyors of good fun, will also be presented. The picture feature is "Free Air."

Billy Hallen, who sings, talks and continues to prattle even while the orchestra pursues the even tenor of its way, will be the coming week's headline feature. He is a monologist who has hit upon the things to which we all take a fancy, and he sweeps his audience along with him.

Dressed in the clothing of yesterday, Eugene Emmett, who is often referred to as "America's Sweetest Sinner," will appear in "The Family Kew." His voice is unusually good. It seems to have a direct connection with the heart. There are pathos, humor and sentiment in what he offers. "Pond Recollections" is the title of the skill which Thomas J. Ryan & Co.

Attractions at Merrimack Square Theatre

JAMES MORRISON, HOUSE PETERS AND JOHN SAINTPOLIS IN "HELD TO ANSWER"

Once more the Merrimack Square theatre comes to the front with one of the best programs of photoplay features shown in New England for months. The array of attractions for the first four days of the coming week will equal that of any movie house in this section of the country.

For a starter there'll be "Held to Answer," a Metro whirlwind with House Peters and Grace Carlyle. The production is taken from Peter Clark MacFarlane's most thrilling action story, depicting a fighting parson's battle with a stolen actress. It has been rightly called a mighty story of spiritual drama and intense passion.

The second feature will be "Sea Raiders," a story of action on the deep, with an all-star cast of well known screen players. A comedy, "All Ways Late," the Boston Post reel, "The New England Home," and the latest International News will round out the bill.

A story decidedly out of the ordinary is dramatically told in "Held to Answer."

Peter Clark MacFarlane, one of the best-known authors of the day, has never written anything more thrilling or exciting than this drama of a fighting minister, an actress and the criminal courts. He has taken as his central character a young actor who deserts the stage to preach the word of God and serve humanity in a small western city. An actress friend follows him and, through jealousy, manages to have him accused of theft.

Mr. MacFarlane has woven a tale that holds one spellbound. It is no wonder that the novel enjoyed the largest sale of any book ever published in America.

House Peters enacts the role of the fighting minister who conducts his own defense when called into court to answer the charge of theft. The important role of the actress is played by Grace Carlyle who has seldom, if ever, been provided with a part more suitable to her talents.

James Morrison, one of the best-known juveniles on the screen, has the role of a young man who falls under the spell of the actress even to the extent of robbing his employer to obtain funds with which to entertain her. Evelyn Brent, the captivating English star, is seen as the heroine who falls in love with the minister and upholds him until he is vindicated. Others who enact the principal roles include "Bull" Montana, by a special arrangement with Hunt Stromberg; Lydia Knott and John Saintpolis.

The Merrimack Square theatre management announces the engagement of Lillian Gish in the noted photoplay classic, "The White Sister," beginning Easter Sunday, April 20.

MISS DESMONDE HERE

Mr. MacLeod and Miss Andrews Off for Bethlehem—Mr. Rowe Here

Miss Lillian Desmond, formerly leading woman of the Luttringer Lowell Opera House company, which went from this city to Manchester following the disastrous fire a few months ago, was a Lowell visitor yesterday. Miss Desmond, who made such a great hit in "Little Old New York" and increased her personal prestige and popularity in the plays which followed, has bought a new roadster and she drove down for the afternoon.

The Luttringer players have no Friday matinee. The visit was short, as she was obliged to return early in order to participate in the evening performance there at the Park theatre. Accompanying Miss Desmond were John Howe, popular juvenile man, and J. Dallas Hammond, who joined the local unit just after the fire and participated in "The Divorce Question," given at the Auditorium as a farewell performance.

To Head Own Company

Miss Desmond, who is leading the Manchester unit, said today that the Luttringer players will rest during Holy week, reopening with "The Alarm Clock." She further said that the company expects to remain in Manchester until about June 1. At that time she will head her own company again in summer stock at Youngstown, O. Mr. Luttringer on Easter Monday opens another unit at Bethlehem, Pa., with his wife, Miss Ann Kingsley, as leading woman.

H. H. Fish, scenic artist for Mr. Luttringer, is, in addition to his other duties, acting as company manager at Manchester, having succeeded Langdon R. Barby, who is operating the Academy theatre here as a personal venture. Miss Desmond, with Messrs. Rowe and Hammond, visited the Academy yesterday afternoon and saw most of the performance of "Her Unborn Child," which closes tonight.

John Rowe To Rest Here

Miss Desmond said that Miss Edna Earl Andrews, second woman of the old Opera House company, and Malcolm MacLeod, general business man, will go to Bethlehem with the new unit. William Courneen, leading man, stays with the Manchester unit, which today closes until Easter Saturday. The present play of the Manchester unit is "The Fighting Parson," which was shown here under the title of "Wild Oats Lane," with Mr. MacLeod in the leading role as "Father Joe."

John Rowe, who starred last week with Miss Desmond in "Trene," will spend his Holy Week vacation in Lowell. The MacLeods and Miss Andrews and her mother will go to Bethlehem, while Miss Desmond is planning a trip to New York and the purchase of more clothes for her wardrobe.

ACADEMY THEATRE

The final performance of "Her Unborn Child" will be given by the Academy theatre tonight. Phone 2097 now to reserve any of the few choice seats still obtainable.

Feature at Strand Beginning Sunday

EVELYN BRENT AND MONTE BLUE IN "LOVING LIES"

Those who think that working before the camera is mostly play, had better have a word with Monte Blue. He with Evelyn Brent and Joan Lowell, is featured in "Loving Lies," an adaptation from Peter B. Kyne's successful novel, "The Harbor Bar," which will be featured on The Strand program for four days, starting with matinee on Sunday. Monte Blue knows better than ever before just how much work a featured star goes through during the course of a picture. In making extra scenes at Laguna beach, California, and some miles off the rocky coast, Blue, who portrays the role of Captain Dan Stover of the tug "Chief," had to guide it through one of the roughest storms seen off the California coast in years, and after a tiring day on the water had to spend a second day and a good portion of the night climbing a high cliff, firing a life line to a sinking vessel which was slowly being battered to pieces on the rocks and then in putting Evelyn Brent to shore. To get to shore from his tug, Mr. Brent had to row in a small boat more than a mile over a choppy sea, arriving at the bottom of the cliff with a boat half filled with water. Blue was very tired before the climb up the cliff started. There were but a small part of the whole action recorded by the star in this semi-sea story in which action, thrills, tense scenes and dramatic art is carefully and cleverly reflected.

"Loving Lies" is woven about the actions of Captain Dan Stover, whose sense of duty towards his mate's wife brings on him trouble that threatens to disrupt his own domestic happiness and contentment. It is only after he has been given a severe test and comes through triumphant, does he see what real danger was his—and all because of a few malicious lies that were belied.

For the second feature on the program the management has secured Mae Marsh in "Paddy the Next-Best-Thing," a very clever Irish story prettily surrounded with the necessary life and action to make it attractive and interesting.

The usual comedy, weekly, and excellent musical numbers by Al Forest and Lew Hinton will help make the program complete.

For the last three days of the week a program of special merit is scheduled. Charles Ray in "The Girl I Loved," a story written about James Whitcomb Riley's poem, and the one and only Nazimova in "Salome." That's a program that will surely attract bumper crowds.

Roy Stewart, co-starred with Kathleen Kirkham in "One-Eighth Apache," a Peter B. Kyne Red Book story, is a remarkably versatile artist who, in his noteworthy screen career, has handled a wide diversity of roles. For it is safe to assert that never before has he been seen to greater advantage than as "Brant Murdock," the husky young easterner, whose gameness and hardihood win for him the admiration and support of all with whom he comes in contact. A versatile player was needed to capably handle the role of Brant Murdock, for the action of the story makes strong demands upon even Mr. Stewart's limitless artistry. He is first seen at his father's ranch. His father, a one-time plainsman, who lives now on his tremendous ranch in the western oil lands, has sent his son, Brant, east to be educated. Brant was raised in an atmosphere of loganberries, gold miner plots, and $20-a-ounce perfume. Naturally, when, for the first time, he is thrown into contact with the west—and all that the name implies—the contrast is rather startling. How it all works out—how he finds the girl of his heart only to lose and find her again,—how villainy is punished and how virtue earns its just reward, is all shown in a splendid photoplay to which the art of Roy Stewart adds even greater lustre.

Shirley Mason, diminutive Fox star, has a splendid role in "South Sea Love," which is also on the program. Of all locations to inspire stories of romance and action, none is the equal of the tropics—anywhere below the mythical line that divides the globe. The story deals with the fervid love of a South Sea Islander. The course of true love runs no smoother behind the azure skies and the trade winds of the tropics, than it does in the hard-frozen north. But, eventually, of course, the typhoon dies and she comes into a beautiful love as tranquil and untroubled as the Pacific off Wakeke beach.

For Sunday, two big Paramount pictures have been secured. The new-lywed, James Kirkwood and Lila Lee will be seen in "Bliss Tide," supported by a cast that includes George Fawcett, Noah Berry and Jacqueline Logan. The other picture on the bill is "Miss Lulu Bett," starring Lois Wilson. Don't forget—Sam Cohen and his funny amateurs will appear at the Rialto Tuesday night.

MISS BERTHE BRAGGIOTTI

ANNUAL GUILD BALL AT THE AUDITORIUM

All who attended the Guild ball in the Auditorium last year will remember with pleasure the delightful dancing of the Braggiotti sisters of Boston.

This year Miss Berthe Braggiotti, admittedly one of the best plastic dancers in the country will give one or two solo dances at the coming

Guild ball to be held in the Auditorium, April 22d.

She will be assisted by five young women sent from Denishawn school who are to give a dance called "Searing." This dance will have its premier appearance in Lowell and was designed to be danced on the estate of Lars Andersen the latter part of May.

Because the Auditorium is peculiarly adapted for this sort of thing it was possible to make arrangements for its first appearance here. These attractions alone should be well worth the price of admission.

SOPHIE BRASLAU

The opening of the advance sale of seats for the Sophie Braslau-Allyn McQuhane joint recital in the Memorial Auditorium, Easter Sunday evening, April 20, brought hundreds of music lovers to Chaffoux's today, where the sale will continue all next week.

The noted artists will come to Lowell under the auspices of the Lowell Notre Dame Alumnae association and a capacity audience is expected, as a single price has been set for every seat in the house.

Sophie Braslau is the noted contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, while Allyn McQuhane is a talented Irish tenor.

One of the secrets of the success of Sophie Braslau, now the foremost of the younger generation of American contraltos, is that she never has slighted any task, no matter how small it was or how unimportant it seemed. In that she is a very good example for other singers to follow, for her singing grows from little. In her early years at the Metropolitan Opera House, being a young and inexperienced singer, naturally only small roles were given to her and her friends used to complain rather bitterly because her great talent was not recognized at once. Her reply was typical: "I think that each and every part that is given us at a place like the Metropolitan is worth while. It means a great deal in experience and it is a great education to work with great singers. No part should be too small for any one who wants a career—that is, if it is a stepping stone to a better part, and if the artist does his part generally."

"Some people say to me: 'Why are you contented just to sing three bars here and four bars there?' It's only a little I know but it will help to six bars and the eight bars and so on, and so the big roles are finally achieved. Just before I made my debut, I happened to read Tolstol's Essay on Art and it inspired me with a wonderful reverence for doing my bit well. Tolstol said if all the little parts did not go well there could not be a great work."

The soundness of Miss Braslau's theory is proved by her own career, for she started at the very beginning and has arrived at a place among the stars when many another singer of talent is still struggling and waiting "for the great opportunity."

Allyn McQuhane, who will make his Lowell debut with Miss Braslau, brings an unusual knowledge of life to the career he has chosen. Born in Bray, County Wicklow, Ireland, he was educated at St. Francis Xavier's and Stonyhurst, destined to enter the Jesuit priesthood in England. The Irish tastes and inclinations ran counter to the parental desire, so that instead of becoming a priest he went to the Canadian northwest and took up ranch life. From ranch to railroading, then a try for fortune in Dawson City. After three or four years of wandering he settled down to serious work in the United States and is now realizing his heart's desire in entering upon a concert career. The widely known composer and critic, James H. Knepper, reviewing in the Cleveland Plain Dealer a performance of the "Messiah," said: "So far as the soloists were concerned, chief honors were certainly due to Allyn McQuhane, who not only disclosed a ringing tenor voice of decidedly pleasing texture, but showed uncommon skill in his use of it."

St. Patrick's Rectory Example of Far-Sighted Economy in Design and Construction

ST. PATRICK'S RECTORY OPEN TO PUBLIC TOMORROW

New Structure Will Be Opened for Inspection Tomorrow—Building Stands as Monument to Zeal and Faith of Parish Members—Description of Building

The new St. Patrick's rectory at the corner of Suffolk and Cross streets—view the initial step in the proposed program of beautifying Catholicism an artistic monument to the zeal and faith of the members of Lowell's oldest Catholic parish—will be formally opened for inspection tomorrow when the general public is invited by the pastor, Rev. John J. McGarry, D.C.L., to St. Patrick's parishioners in particular, and the entire community in general, may take great pride.

Plans for the building were drawn about a year and a half ago by William B. Collins, a noted Boston architect, with offices in the Little Building in the Hub. Ground was first broken on St. Patrick's day, 1922, and on the same feast-day this year, the completed structure was blessed and dedicated with impressive ceremonies. The old rectory, formerly located on the site of the present building, was removed to Fenwick street and continued in use as the parish house.

Tomorrow, the priests of the parish, Rev. Dr. McGarry, Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., Rev. Joseph A. Curran, and Rev. Thomas J. McDonough, will take up their abode in the new quarters, where they will greet the members of their flock, and people from every section of the city. The old rectory will be converted into a parish center or meeting house for sodalities and societies.

Description of Building

REV. JOHN J. MCGARRY, D.C.L.
Pastor

providing separate means of exit from the house in case of fire. All ceilings throughout the house are metal lathed and hard-plastered as a fire protection. The basement contains, besides storage space, janitor's work room, an up-to-date laundry, with gas clothes dryer, washing machines, trays, etc., and clothes chute, heating rooms with hot water storage tanks, coal bins, etc.

The first floor is taken up by three public offices, in front portion of building, a small sanatorium with travertine altar, main stair hall, pastor's office, dining closets, dining room, maid's dining alcove, serving pantry, kitchen and kitchen work rooms.

On the second floor are suites for three priests, each suite consisting of study, chamber and bath with ample closets. Also in the rear of this floor, three maid's rooms with bathroom, linen closets, are located.

The third floor is taken up by a suite for one priest, as on second floor—three guest rooms, and a recreation room. The building is of red brick with white cast-stone trimming.

Dining Room

The dining room on the first floor is one of the main features of the house and is reminiscent of the refectories of the monasteries of Italy, especially those in and around Florence. It is treated with stone walls, tile floor and beamed ceiling. The windows of this room, and also the doors in the built-in china cabinets, are of leaded glass.

The recreation room on the third floor is designed as a ship's hold, with curved oak walls, horizontal joints, oak decked beams on the ceilings, slide ribs and knee braces. The lighting fixtures of the above room were designed from antique examples of nautical lanterns. The future furnishings of this room will be nautical in feeling and will embrace such features as a binocular, chart desk, life preservers, ship's models, cutlasses, muskets, etc. The floor of this room will be cloth carpet. All the oak in this room is finished in silver gray and the ceiling which represents the deck beams, is stained a jade green. Jade green hangings will be used around the windows in this room.

Main Stairhall

Floors and treads of stairs in this portion are of cork tile for quietness. On the first floor in this portion and on the newel post at the foot of the stairs, a statue of St. Patrick, patron saint of the parish, is carved in walnut and is a fine example of wood-carver's art. This was done by Mr. Paloski of Boston.

Mechanical Features

Last word in up-to-date appliances, latest devices, 24-inch clothes chute with openings from every floor in the house communicating with the laundry in the basement. Incinerator communicating from every floor in the house into which rubbish of every description, including swill, waste papers, dust, etc., are thrown for burning in basement. The various rooms throughout the house are connected by an interior telephone system in addition to outside accommodation.

The ranges in the kitchen are of the so-called French type, universally used in hotels and restaurants. These are erected upon a brick hearth and are covered by a steel hood connected to a vent in the chimney. Refrigerators are of the automatic type and are installed as follows: The main refrigerator in the passage just off the kitchen, to take care of all perishable material delivered; a smaller unit in the serving pantry and another smaller unit in a closet just off the recreation room on the third floor.

Old Relics There

Relics of the old rectory have been preserved in the new house—The old hand-hell by which maids summoned the various priests for callers, will be given a prominent place on a small shelf directly over the modern electric call system communicating to the various priests' rooms. The old foot-scraper, which for years saw service on the steps of the old rectory, has been installed on the platform of the steps of the new rectory.

Sun Porch

On the level of the second floor of the main portion, a door is provided which gives access to the roof over the service portion and this is treated as a sort of roof garden with a pergola above it. This will later be screened with bamboo screens, vines growing about, etc.

Laundry

The clothes chute mentioned before also serves, when the clothes-chute door in the laundry is opened, as a ventilator through the roof of the building.

The wooden hatch in the recreation

General and Sub-Contractors

sub-contractors were the following: Daniel Leary, steamfitting; Bartlett and Dow, Hardware; E. F. Gilligan Co., painting; J. L. Douglas, roofing; Mat-tais F. Connors, plastering; Lowell Gas Light Co., clothes dryer; James F. McElholm & Son, electrical work.

Roussel was represented by Daniel J. Donahue as counsel. Judge Enright dismissed the complaints and ordered the prisoner discharged. The drunkenness complaint, being first offense of record, was filed upon a plea of guilty.

The murder complaint against John Wichinsky, being now in the hands of the Middlesex superior criminal court, was filed by order of Judge Enright.
John Tsaffaras, arrested March 8 on an arson charge, consented to a further continuance of two weeks pending grand jury action.

Michael Themis, charged with abus-ing a child, was represented by Joseph Donahue as counsel. A continuance to next Friday was agreed upon.

A continuance to June 12 was granted in the non-support case brought March 18 against Ray F. Courtenay by his wife. The continuance was asked by agreement of counsel.

Joseph Turner was arraigned on a drunkenness complaint, and was given a suspended sentence.

Donald MacFayden's case was first on the long calendar of continued cases. He is charged with being drunk on April 7 and upon request of counsel a continuance to next Friday was granted.

George H. Reagan, who got drunk despite the fact that he had a five months' suspended sentence hanging over his head, started today to serve that sentence. Judge Enright revoking the suspension.

SEN. COUZENS TO UNDERGO OPERATION

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Senator James Couzens of Michigan, who until Wednesday was pressing the senate investigation of the internal revenue bureau, faced an operation today because of a sudden recurrence of a stomach ailment which has troubled him for several years. Physicians attending Senator Couzens decided upon the operation last night and summoned a specialist from Detroit, his home, although earlier in the day his illness had been described as a "serious" but "not dangerous" attack of indigestion. He was said late last night to be "resting easily."

WOMAN FACES MURDER CHARGE

Mrs. Johanna Tell to Be Returned to Connecticut, Pending Hearing

Warrant for Her Arrest Followed Discovery of Body of Charles Blair

KILLINGWORTH, Conn., April 12.—
Charged with murder of Charles Blair, which, but for her confession, officials declare, might never have been discovered, Mrs. Johanna Tell was expected to be returned to Connecticut today by state policemen who left for New York this forenoon, armed with a warrant for the arrest of the woman.

The warrant was issued last night
by State Attorney Ingalls of Middletown and turned over to Grand Juror C.
P. Marquard of this town, following the discovery of Blair's body, buried in a fertilizer pit of his own making on his chicken farm at Len Hill.

Under instruction from Coroner L.
A. Smith of Middletown, Dr. D. A.
Fox of Clinton and Dr. Jesse W. Fisher of Middletown, planned to perform a formal autopsy on Blair's body at Clinton this afternoon. Coroner Smith will conduct an inquest early next week.

If Mrs. Tell waives extradition and comes to Connecticut she will be lodged in the county jail at Hartford, pending a preliminary hearing to be held before a Justice of the peace here.
Meantime state police and agents of the state's attorney were busy at the Blair home checking up in detail the story of Mrs. Tell, who declared that she killed Blair by shooting after he had threatened her with an axe during one of a number of quarrels over her refusal to marry him. A bullet wound in the head and other wounds on the body were believed to corroborate the woman's story that she had first shot Blair and then hacked his body with an axe. Today's autopsy is expected to develop certainly the evidence in this matter.

GYPSY QUEEN BURIED WITH POMP FROM BALTIMORE CHURCH

Some Egyptian Customs Observed in Commitment of Body—The Presidency Contest—Third Party Gossip—Massachusetts a Doubtful State on Senator

(Special to The Sun)
WASHINGTON, April 12.—Somehow we associate a gypsy queen with wild roving life, a long line of cover-foreign countries, tinkling bells, a ed wagons as occasionally seen in real life, or with the gypsy chorus of the stage, yet it was within a stone throw of the capitol that a gypsy queen of unquestioned authenticity was buried last week, with a mingling of Christian and Pagan ritual and rites never before witnessed in the United States.

With all the mystic ceremony of long forgotten ages, preceded by a regu-lem mass in one of Baltimore's largest Catholic churches, the body of Eleanor, queen of a powerful band of gypsies, was buried in Mt. Olivet cemetery in the capital of the nation. Her husband, King John, rules the tribe with a powerful hand. Their home in Baltimore is described as very beautiful, and the ceremony of the burial, and the carrying out of mystic rites, as old as the pyramids, created a sensation, even in a city accustomed to strange foreign customs as seen through its diplomatic corps.

In a casket of sterling silver, dressed in the finest of silks, fairly buried beneath gifts of gold, silver and precious stones, the body of the queen lay in state for 24 hours. Through her hair was woven a band of gold and jewels worth a small fortune, a necklace of rare gems was round her neck and sparkling gems were strewn over her body. They were her dowry when she married King John, who said they should be buried with her, so on the wakening of the queen, which is due in exactly 3000 years from her death, she would find herself dressed as for ceremonial in her life just closed. To prepare for that "second awakening" a basket of rare fruits, wines, fowls, and other choice foods, according to gypsy fancy, were placed beside the casket to sustain the body of the queen during its long sleep of 3000 years. The jewels will also be her dowry as she enters on her new life "in the realm of eternity."

To preserve the body during these centuries, the cost of which was something more than $3000. This casket was placed in a sealed outer casket of cement. The grave was lined with cement and after the casket had been lowered into it, a heavy, deep, concrete was laid over it.

There were many exciting incidents during the burial ceremony, for the ideas as insisted on by the crowd of 500 or more gypsies attending were frequently out of accord with the rules of the cemetery and at one time a near riot occurred. But the gypsies

EXHIBITION DRILL AT NORMAL SCHOOL

A pretty and interesting exhibition drill in which the students of the Normal school gymnasium classes capably executed various drill movements before a large audience gathered in the assembly hall, was given yesterday afternoon.

The opening number was a march in which about 250 girls participated, various additional movements being given at intermissions.

Espanola, a pretty folk dance, given by sections A, B, C, D and E, III, III and IV, gave the performers an opportunity to show their skill in the execution of the numerous difficult steps. The Norwegian Mountain march and Tarento, folk dances, interpreted by sections A and B, I and II, were two artistic sketches which afforded a wide field in which grace and ability were displayed by the members of the various sections participating.

The Sailor's Hornpipe dance was admirably given by sections I, II, III, IV, A, B, C, D. The Farmers' clog was interpreted by the girls in section II, who wore large straw hats drawn over the eyes, middie and bloomers, and large bandanas tied about their necks.

As a token of appreciation to their director, Miss Ruth M. Bailey, the girls of the various gym classes presented her a filigree platinum bar-pin, the presentation being made by Miss Catherine Lahey.

The closing number of the drill was an exit march, during which time the class song, written to the tune of the Andover "Victory Song" by Miss Josephine O'Neill, class of '23, was sung by the girls.

The 64 judges, representatives taken from the eight divisions, awarded the decision to section B, which scored 94.2 per cent. The senior section IV was second with a percentage of 88.

The Misses Charlotte McKean, Lorraine Leith, Alice Hardy and Mary Mooney were the accompanists of the afternoon.

STOLEN AUTOS RECOVERED

The motor car of Thomas Abdullah, stolen Thursday from Warren street, was recovered by the police yesterday, having been abandoned in the rear of St. Patrick's cemetery. The auto of Amelia Bernier of Westford, stolen yesterday, was recovered later in Hild's court, where it had been abandoned.

MIDDLESEX EXTENSION SERVICE WORK

Cholmsford young people, boys and girls, have won many accolades for achievements in Middlesex extension service work in homes and in agricultural and poultry-raising pursuits.

Dish washing, 2000 times, 2478 scored. Irene Genest led with 288 times to her credit. Fred making, 1000 times, 1261 scored. Lenora Patterson had the highest mark, 117. Garments made: goal 50, or five to a member; 117 scored. Corinne House was the winner with 25 garments finished. Corinne House also won this with 110 score. This club was known as the "Thimble Flagger club."

Among others capturing high honor figures were Miss Doris Hardy, in the needle and thread division. Miss Helen Vessels of the county bureau and Miss Mordock of the state headquarters acted as judges for the work displayed.

COURTEOUS TREATMENT TO DISABLED VETS

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Director Hines of the veterans' bureau has taken steps to insure courteous treatment by employees to disabled veterans seeking aid.

In a letter to district managers, made public today, he calls for elimination of employees not qualified to meet disabled men "with genuine interest" in their welfare, and suggests frequent personal investigations to make sure that they receive "courteous and humane" treatment.

Detailed Description of House Plan Illustrated on Page 9

This home might be called western in style, due to the marked horizontal lines. However, it is adaptable to any section of the country. It meets the present demand for a compact, conveniently arranged interior. It can be erected on a 40 to 45 foot lot, and is designed to face west or north. It can be reversed for other facings.

The large open front porch is a feature. There are practically no hallways to waste room. There is no space that is not useful space. This house can have an attic if desired, reached by a stairway in the closet of the larger bedroom.

The house is planned to be built of frame with exterior finish of shingle or wide siding. There is a full basement.

Cubic contents of the house are approximately 20,000 feet, and the cost to build this house, including heating, plumbing, lighting, painting, ready to live in, but not including wall decorations, should range between $5,000 and $7,000. In certain localities where costs are high, the highest figure quoted would be too low. In other localities, the lowest figure quoted would be more than sufficient. The range of $1,000 is given to cover differences in the way the house is built and how thoroughly it is equipped and completed.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The plans for small homes are furnished by the Regional Bureau of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., an organization made up of the representative practicing architects from leading architectural offices throughout the United States. This bureau is controlled by the American Institute of Architects, and has the endorsement of the Department of Commerce, United States government. It is practically a non-profit, making public service, and has as its purpose the furnishing of a very complete and dependable small house plan service at modest cost. For information regarding the blue prints and specifications, address the Home Building Editor of this paper. PAINS IN BACK CAUSED BY GRIP

Banished by Building Up Blood Weakened by the Acute Attack

"Three months after I had an attack of grip I was still suffering from its effects," says Mrs. Sadie Jones, of No. 1 Lemon street, Salem, Mass. "I was troubled with pains in the back, was weak and had frequent chills when it seemed as though I could not get warm. I did not care much for food, nothing tasted right, and I could not do my work. I just dragged one foot after the other. I was very nervous and was easily startled."

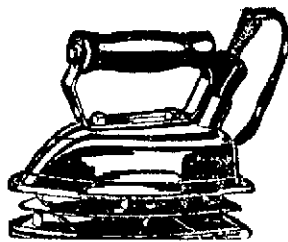

"I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills some years ago to build up my blood so I thought I would try them again. They helped me right off. I commenced to eat better and soon got stronger. My nerves quieted down, I did not have the chills any more, nor that all-gone feeling. The pains in my back went away. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills built me up and gave me new strength and ambition and I am glad to recommend them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent post-paid, on receipt of price, sixty cents per box, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A valuable booklet, "Building Up the Blood" will be sent free upon request.—Adv.

Gas—Water—Oil The Three Essentials

ON these three essentials depends the power output and satisfactory performance of your car, allowing that it is in reasonably good mechanical condition.

Of these three, the lubricating oil, representing but little more than 2 1/2% of the cost of operation, maintenance and depreciation, carries the burden of protecting the 1500 or more moving parts and of providing the piston ring seal necessary to obtain full compression.

Your lubricating oil is the most important factor in protecting you against expensive repairs and rapid depreciation.

Oil should be added frequently in the quantity necessary to maintain the oil in the reservoir between half full and "full."

crank-case and an entire fresh supply poured in.

For these reasons the careful motorist today buys his Gargoyle Mobiloil in sealed 5-gallon cans or 15-, 30-, or 55-gallon steel drums (with convenient, leak-proof faucets) and keeps a supply in his home garage.

With such a supply of Mobiloil in your home garage you form the valuable habit of attending frequently to the oil level in the engine. And you protect yourself against any need to accept a substitute for genuine Mobiloil.

Nearby dealers carry complete stocks of Gargoyle Mobiloil in all grades and in the various sizes of containers. Their copy of the Complete Chart of Recommendations will show exactly which grade of Mobiloil should be used for your car—no matter what make or model it may be.

HOUSE SENSE

The largest amount of real estate ever owned by the majority of men is the plot on which their house stands; their greatest venture in finance is the owning of a home. For it they tie themselves down to a locality, they mortgage their future, they color their children's lives as well as their own. The choosing of a home site, then, should be a matter of grave concern, and the selection made only after careful investigation of all the local conditions present and prospective.

OUT OUR WAY

New Method of Reducing Fat

A news item from abroad informs us that the American method of producing a slim, trim figure is meeting with astonishing success. This system, which has made such a wonderful impression over there, must be the Marmola Prescription Tablet method of reducing fat. It is safe to say that we have nothing better for this purpose in this country. Anything that will reduce the excess flesh steadily and easily without injury to the stomach, the causing of wrinkles, the help of exercising or dieting, or interference with one's meals is a mighty important and useful addition to civilization's necessities. Just such a catalogue of good results follow the use of those pleasant, harmless and economical Little Fat Reducers. We say economical, because Marmola Prescription Tablets (made in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) can be obtained of any druggist the world over or from the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., for one dollar a box, which is a decidedly economical price, considering the number of tablets each box contains. They are harmless.—Adv.

Joint-Ease is the name, so called because it is a compound solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments.

FEAST OF EMANCIPATION WILL BEGIN APRIL 18

Israel's Feast of Emancipation starts at sundown, Friday, April 18, when faithful Jews begin the celebration of the Passover festival, held in high reverence. It is set down as the anniversary of the Exodus from Egypt, when the people of Israel first asserted itself as a free nation. It is celebrated not only in the synagogues, where the usual services are read, but it is especially notable as a home festival, the greatest known to the Jews.

Observing the Feast of Emancipation, solemn services will be conducted in the morning and evening at the three Lowell synagogues, with the celebration of the Passover and formal rituals as of yore. Outside of the synagogues—in the homes of the Jewish people far and wide—there will be celebrations of note.

It is not remarkable that the 15 million of Jews on earth today are eager to mark this anniversary, the Jews are today the sole survivors of all ancient peoples, and they take a pride most naturally in tracing their history backward to the fifteenth century before the Christian era, as one of the greatest proofs that their ideals are still needed in the world of today.

In all Jewish homes the method of celebration is interesting and impressive, for the ancient tale of the redemption is retold, accompanied by songs set to traditional melodies, which have become endeared to old and young, and aid in making the feast both entertaining and enjoyable.

Married children meet with their parents around the festal board, and all are inspired with the feeling not only of family unity, but also with the call of the faith to some who have not always listened for it.

Thus the feast is ushered in, to last for seven days, marked by the use of the unleavened bread, the putting aside of all leaven from the homes, and a solemn ceremonial to close the feast on the last day. Among the orthodox, not only the first day but also the second is marked as holy, and they also add an eighth day at the close of the week.

The family circle is extended at this time to include friends who are not so fortunate as to have their families at hand, and some of the synagogues have instituted what are called "Congregational Passover Suppers" in which all who do not have the feast at home may join. The partaking of several cups of wine is prescribed by the ancient authorities as a mark of joy.

ARCHBISHOP ZEPLIAK AT RIGA, ESTHONIA

LONDON, April 12.—Archbishop Zepliak, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Russia, released from prison by the soviet authorities, arrived at Riga, Esthonia, in an exhausted condition, according to the Riga correspondent of the Daily Mail.

Since the recent announcement by the Russian government of its intention to release Archbishop Zepliak there have been several conflicting stories concerning his whereabouts, some declaring that he was still in prison and others that he was at liberty.

The prelate has been in prison a year, following his condemnation to death and subsequent reprieve on charges of resisting the Bolshevik government.

BEFORE BABIES WERE BORN

Mrs. Oswald Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Girardville, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my last two babies came. It keeps me in perfect health and I am on my feet getting meals and doing all my housework until an hour before the baby is born. A friend told me to take it and I have used ten bottles since I heard about it. I recommend the Vegetable Compound whenever I can. Just yesterday a friend was telling me how miserable she felt, and I said, 'If you start taking Lydia E. Pinkham's you will feel fine.' Now she is taking it."—Mrs. P. J. OSWALD, JR., 406 West Ogden St., Girardville, Pa.

Mishawaka, Indiana.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness before my babies were born. I was weak and tired out all the time and it helped me. When I had inward inflammation the doctor treated me, but did not help me, so I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and it helped me at once."—Mrs. NICOLA PALUZZI, 415 E. REMARKABLE EFFICIENCY
OF MACK TRUCKS

The remarkable efficiency of the present day Mack truck is maintained by ten many factors of strength and safety that it embodies—case-hardened parts, large bearing surfaces, long pistons and connecting rods, together with other remarkable and long-life construction parts.

Efficiency and safety are more than technical considerations with Mack engineers. Important Mack features, in addition to those just mentioned, include wide-faced transmission gears, ample sized springs and axles, simple, rugged steering knuckles and brakes.
The Macks have required a traditional significance and importance in the world of motor trucks that are reflected on the highways by performances characteristic only of motor conveyances that the world is talking about today.

The selection of the truck body design and capacity best suited to the requirements of the individual purchaser, is of vital importance. All the standard types come in the Mack line of bodies, from the one 1/2-ton upward in the usual requirements. The original chain drive has been retained and is offered as usual on all truck models.
The present Mack motor is of the 4-cylinder, 4-cylinder, vertical engine and selective transmission.

The International Motor company producing the world's most world-famous trucks is very efficiently represented in Lowell by the Mack Motor Truck company of 39 First street, on the new Lawrence boulevard. This company operates at this very convenient and handsomely equipped location in the heart of Lowell, a factory branch service station and sales mart.
The entire Lowell operation is exclusively devoted to giving service to Mack trucks.

There is 20,000 square feet of floor space on First street, all devoted to servicing Mack trucks exclusively.
There is a force of 4 people, all experts, devoting their entire time to servicing Mack trucks. Every part of a Mack truck is kept constantly in stock.
There is a similar service station in every large city in New England, also, thus making Mack service ideal.

Prompt service is the rule at the well known Lowell Mack headquarters and sales station on First street. No motor vehicle agency is more prosperous today in this locality, no better trucks for all transportation purposes anyone could think of, can be found anywhere.
For the name of the famous Mack is backed up by perfect engineering, bringing efficient service at lowest cost, and master workmanship, the three sturdy legs that support the ultimate performance record of the wonderfully powerful, long-service Mack.

Inc., was clinched long ago, but not too long, for much of the energy, the wisdom and the cleverness exhibited by the proprietors and expert attaches in this popular "best shop" of the town, has been due to vigorous ambitions on the part of men who are still close to the stage of youth in full bloom, and progressive.

The Thorndike automobile power and lighting service station carries all the quality lines in the Bosch magnetos, the Westinghouse, Sims, Dyneto, Bi-

CLEANSING CLOTHES TO LOOK LIKE NEW

Few laundries in New England have as honorable a trade name for admirable performance year in and year out in the business of cleansing and drying garments and cloth goods of every household and personal use, as does the famous and widely known Highland Steam Laundry. Located for years at No. 4 Fletcher street, with a prompt collection and delivery system that covers every section of Lowell and all surrounding towns in wide area, this progressive, sanitary and long-established "Home of the Cleaners" finds itself firmly placed upon a substantial foundation that proves the quality of its managerial supervision.
The Highland concern has never carried a stock trade motto, but its hosts of friends everywhere know where to go without any direction when they want clothes cleansed properly, week in and week out.

The spring of the year is very often the busiest period of the year for the laundries. Highland Steam Laundry finds itself this season on the high-roads of new business in its important industry, which is in a class by itself.

Now is the time for men and women to send their old clothes to the Highland and have them thoroughly cleansed like new by the famous dry cleaning method originated by this Fletcher street sanitary laundry establishment and found nowhere else. The essential thing is to have cloth materials sent to the laundry, come back in good condition. Extreme care is always used at the Highland plant to preserve the quality, color and strength of every article sent to the establishment for cleansing and ironing.
No damaged "returns" from the Highland.

There is no busier cleansing plant in Lowell; no institution of its kind that more faithfully serves customers, large and small. All goods sent for service to the plant at the homes and delivered without extra charges. It is a service long established, one that has proved most useful indeed to housewives, and all orders when taken for stated time returns, are carried out faithfully as desired. The Highland Steam Laundry's handy telephone despatch number is 1750. Just remember that number when you call. Housewife, make up your next bundle of laundry for the "washerwoman." You will be surprised at the Highland service feature of the phone-call arrangement if you try it just once.

SUPREME VALUES IN ROUNDS' PORTRAITS

"Your Photographer" would have a word with readers of The Sun this week. It is a message worth listening in upon, too, and there is no need of plugging in on any amateur wireless for the message, for here it is.

"Your Photographer," the well known Mr. Will Rounds, whose most attractive studio is conveniently located at 112 First street, off Lawrence boulevard, and just a short walk from Lowell's mercantile center, announces for the spring season a "special" of supreme value, never before offered at such a price—portraits at $5 per dozen.

There are photographers and photographers, portraits and portraits, but no photo artist anywhere can exceed in fine quality work, the careful finish of the genuinely artistic photographs produced at the beautiful Will Rounds studios on First street. Quality work, much of it superb in its original presentations, its fine finish and desirable, lasting qualities in the cleartone effects and natural portraiture, is always the Rounds ideal, and the First street photographer lives up to that ideal always. And his charges for his professional artistry and portraits are most reasonable at all times.

Today the Rounds studio offers a surprisingly low price magnet for its finest work, for a short time only—$5 per dozen portraits. This offer is only made possible by the advantageous location of the famed Rounds studio, quaintly attractive in its famous garden beauty setting, as many a spring and summer visitor knows.

Mr. Rounds specializes in portraits of little children, as well as pictures of elders. The handy studio photo-phone number is 2118. The photographer makes pictures in family homes, halls, reception places, outdoors, indoors, on water and shore—anywhere, any time, always anxious to consult and to respond to the commands of patrons who want faultless photography work finished at the very lowest possible cost.

MAHONEY GARAGES HANDILY LOCATED

Mahoney garages have always been known for the best, quickest service, day and night, 365 days in the year, which means always and any old time.
Modern parking stations, large storage fireproof and equipped in a modern way—service always—these make up but a small part of the Mahoney offerings to automobilists all, that has spread the reputation of the well known adjunct of Lowell's automotive business far and near.

The Mahoney famous garages are two in number—the popular and handy station of great size and excellent accommodations at First street, and the brand new and good sized Central street garage, where you can drive right in on your own power, day and night.

The First street automobile garage, parking place, storage and service station has the main entrance on that thoroughfare, the new Lawrence boulevard, with commodious exits on Second street. Motorists can drive in and through without turning around, and there is ample room and never any blockades. The garage throughout is equipped with everything needed to take care of a motorist's wants.

The Central street garage is today one of the busiest places in the Lowell motor world. There are three floors, all used day and night, and no elevators, oddly enough but true. You drive in on your own power to either floor.
Ample arrangements are made for free movement of cars in any floor.

Both garages advertise "service"
every minute of the day or night.
Washstands are in operation at all hours. The most up-to-date equipment is found in each garage and courteous service is ready for any motorist's waiting in power or ignition trouble.
Success has shown long and brightly on the Mahoney's. P. F., the genial, is sole proprietor, and M. F., the alert general manager. It's a pleasure to meet 'em, as motorists who have never enjoyed Mahoney garage service will learn when employing the First or Central street garages as required.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 15.

At that moment Jack heard a peculiar noise. "What's that?" he asked. "Oh, just the rubber band, having its little concert." And then Jack heard Flip barking loudly behind some nearby bushes. He ran up to where his dog was and peered through the bushes. What a surprise!

Out in a little open space stood a number of little rubber bands. They were leaning first one way and then another. Jack then realized that as they stood there the wind blew past them and caused them to shiver. And this shivering of the rubber band was making a peculiar singing sound.

Jack watched them for a moment and then decided to join their party. As soon as he walked into the open space there was a wild scramble. Never before had those little rubber bands seen a boy, and Jack's appearance scared them. One by one they took a little jump and bounced away. (Continued.)

LENT IN THE HOLY LAND

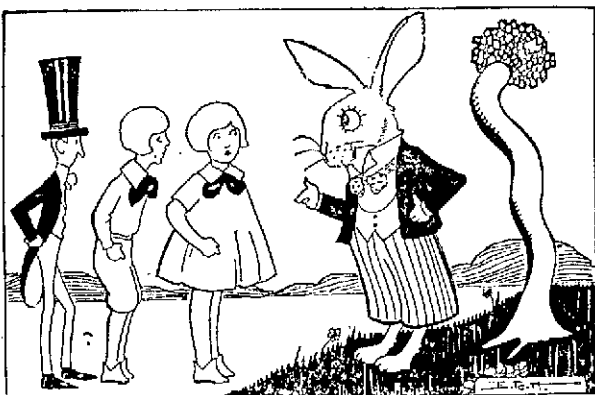

GETTISEMANE, WHERE JESUS SUFFERED AND WAS BETRAYED has been continuously maintained as a shrine since the fourth century. The Franciscan Order is now in charge of the garden on the lower slope of the Mount of Olives. The olive tree in the center is the oldest in existence in the garden, and is said to date back to the eventful night when Christ and his disciples went there to await the closing events in Christ's earthly life.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

THIS EASTER BUNNY ARRIVES

"DID YOU SEE A CHOCOLATE RABBIT WITH ONE EAR?"

A very unexpected person made a visit to Doofunny Land. You would think he'd be too awfully busy right at this time to go to such a far-away country, but there he was, long ears and short tail and all. It was the Easter Bunny.

Nancy and Nick and Mister Fuzz Wuzz met him on the road, peering this way and that as though he was looking for something.

"How do you do?" he said, "did you see a chocolate rabbit with one ear, and a hollow hen?"

Mister Fuzz Wuzz laughed. "With one ear and a hollow hen? What did he want with a hollow hen?"

"It's no time for joking," said the Easter Bunny. "I asked you if you had seen a hollow hen and a one-eared chocolate rabbit?"

"Well, why didn't you say so?" exclaimed Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "You said a rabbit with one ear and a hollow hen?"

"Oh, shush!" said the newcomer. "I haven't time to waste. My Easter baskets are all ready but one, and it was ready, too, but when I had my back turned to get some tiny eggs to put into the basket, the bunny and hen skipped off. All that was left was one of the bunny's ears and a few crumbs of maple sugar off the hen. I've been to Sugar Plum Land, but they are not there, and to Toy Land, but they are not there either! Doofunny Land was the only place I could think of after that so I came here. Are you sure you didn't see them?"

"No, we didn't," said the Twins.

"And I didn't," said Mister Fuzz Wuzz. "However, there are a lot of people in Doofunny Land who haven't asked yet. Come along, Bunny, we'll go with you."

"See a bunny and a chicken?" exclaimed the patent-leather cat. "Nope, I didn't. Did you, friend dog?" For the cat and dog had made it up and were now living peacefully.

"Nope," said the dog. "But I like chocolate. I'm sorry I didn't. And I like maple sugar, too."

Next they met, let me see, I think it was the tin mouse.

"Did I see a chocolate bunny and a maple-sugar hollow hen? No, I didn't! And he wiggled his long horse-hair whiskers. 'Where did you say you left the basket with the chocolate ear in it? It might make a meal.'"

"Never mind where I left it," said the Easter Bunny sharply. "That's one reason I wish to find the runaways. Before they can tell my secrets. And just before taking the baskets around to the children's houses, I always warn the basket people not to tell, either."

"Well, I didn't see either of them," squeaked the mouse, running away.

"Saw a rabbit and hen?" cried all the Plumpy Dumpty Circus animals. "No, we didn't, but we wish we had!"

And the way they licked their lips made the Easter Bunny shiver.

"I think I'll be going," he said hastily, thanking Mister Fuzz Wuzz and the Twins.

"See a rabbit and hen?" cried all the Plumpy Dumpty Circus animals. "No, we didn't, but we wish we had!"

The scope of the insurance company at the present time is exceptionally large. There are hundreds of different kinds of personal and property insurance and while the T. C. Lee Co. is prepared to sign almost any kind of insurance it is specializing in auto insurance.

Auto insurance is becoming a greater necessity every day because of the huge daily increase in auto registrations. There is every indication that the number of autos on the road this summer will be almost twice as large as that of last summer. Under these conditions even the most careful driver is liable to accidents and the best protection offered is that offered by the insurance companies of the T. C. Lee Co.

Because of the low rates of insurance at the T. C. Lee Co. it is possible for everyone to insure their car without feeling that they have been imposed upon and the promptness with which all claims are adjusted will plainly indicate why the T. C. Lee Co. has been so successful in their field.

WAMESIT LODGE

At the regular meeting of Wamesit Lodge last night, the second rank was worked on one candidate and preparations completed for the working of the third rank on three candidates at the next meeting. The "Go-get-'em" committee reported on the joint smoker held Wednesday evening.

Brother Wassner, leader of the band, announced that a concert is to be given at the Battles Home, Thursday evening for the benefit of brothers at the institution. All bandmen are requested to take the Broadway car at 7:31 p.m. next Thursday evening.

LOWELL LEAGUE OF

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in Liberty Hall, Memorial Auditorium, an open meeting will be held under the auspices of the Lowell League of Catholic Women. The ladies committee of the league, of which Miss Eva Blanchard is chairman, will have general supervision of the meeting. Arrangements have been made for an address by Arthur L. Eno of this city on "The Constitution and What It Means." The general public is invited to attend.

A successful food sale was held under League auspices in Guggen's in the success of the affair were Mrs. M. J. Sharkey, Mrs. William Kearney, Mrs. Martin Maher, Mrs. Fred Lamoureux, Mrs. A. E. O'Hair, Miss Blanche Doyle, Miss Mary Wood and Miss Margaret Connell. The delicious cake donated by Friend Bros. was won by Mrs. Fred Lamoureux.

THREE LOWELL
MEN INDICTED

The Middlesex county grand jury has returned indictments against three Lowell men, Earle O. Lyseth, Antonio Goulet, and Thomas Nevesta. Lyseth is charged with manslaughter, being the alleged driver of the automobile which struck and caused the death of Gustaf A. Parberg in Middlesex street on the night of Feb. 16.

Goulet is indicted on charges of assault and robbery in a "Hidden street" drug store.

Nevesta is indicted on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny in the night time, the building of Tacklin Movers, a Gorham street tailor, and stealing several suits of clothes.

LOCAL TEXTILE OUTLOOK

Industrial Securities Causes
Favorable Comment

Disturbing factors in the textile cloth distributing channels of the country and world at large, when long continuing and bringing in their trail disconcerting conditions in the world of finance where these securities are handled in transfer trading markets large and small, have not greatly affected any of the stocks bearing familiar Lowell industrial names thus far in the present period of general business stagnation.

Prophets of the financial work, watching the fluctuation of "big business" securities in the stock exchange, unlisted securities and auction markets, have no trouble in finding the pulse of public sentiment during periods of slack business and dwindling profits. Not every stock market wiseacre guesses right, even in prosperous times, and the job comes a bit harder these days when one tries to find out what brokers handling textile securities think about the present and future values of those securities.

The Sun has endeavored to ascertain from different quarters, a comprehensive idea of the situation as it stands today in the intimate quarter of the individual investor. As is generally known, probably, thousands of shares of Lowell textile mill stocks are owned everywhere, but more particularly in New England and in Lowell heavily, by men and women as well as trustees of estates, many of the holdings having been in the same hands for scores of years and prized highly.

If in the local textile conditions today were of any alarming, which they are not; if long-time investors and holders of well known Lowell mill shares were convinced that dividends on familiar "best stocks" were in danger of annihilation in the future so far as the "quarterlies" were concerned; if, as the majority of stockholders in any Lowell industrial establishment that might be mentioned, did not harbor a feeling that a brighter day is coming and coming before very long—it would be expected very naturally that this would be the time to begin to dispose of small holdings slowly and "get out from under."

Only a calamity could cause this action, however, and there is nothing of this kind in the offing, all textile men agree, though prosperity cannot come in a day and this is not the first time that Lowell textile manufacturers have had to while away their time in looking over the books, adjusting plant equipment and planning for that which will come when the natural law of supply and demand takes the upward swing once more.

Better Times Ahead

Textile critics are confident that the new turn of affairs in the world textile is not far off. Some of them say so openly, but they won't be quoted publicly. They won't admit they know or can predict, but indications are apparently today in some quarters locally that before 1925 wings in for another 12-month journey, Lowell mill wheels will be turning and machinery humming steadily to their feet today.

Returning to the textile corporation securities: It would be hardly fair to compare the stability of stock quotations of today with those of the period before the World War. Conditions at that time were far different than they are today. Neither would it be better to show how Lowell mill shares have stood in the daily unlisted stocks lists, provided by private banking houses handling exclusively New England industrial stocks.

Very few Lowell textile shares have been hit hard by the present stagnation in general business operations. That is a fact that cannot be disputed. Although other stocks and bonds in many other industries have fallen pretty low in the quotation lists, with general business discouragingly small in many quarters far and wide, the standard, favorite, good-dividend-paying textile stocks of New England have been holding their own in good shape, even today.

Lowell has a Lowell long established mill share moved very far down the list when small lots have been offered for sale. Indeed, Lowell shares are not the common thing in any security market today and have not been for a long time. Lowell banking houses buying or selling Lowell mill shares in odd lot quantities, are authorities and familiar with the market demands for such holding values. The Sun has been informed today, as has been the case ever since the close of the World War,

Only Few More Days Before Major League Umpires Will Call Out "Play Ball"

American and National League Teams Home From Southern Climes to Pry Off Lid for 1924 Season—Great Speculation on Eve of Opening Day

NEW YORK, April 12. (By the Associated Press.)—The resounding crack of the base hit and the shrill cry of the bleacherite, echoed but dimly from southern climes for the past few weeks, have reached their native habitat and within a few days major league fandom will thrill to the arrival of that American institution—opening day.

The battle between rookie and veteran, the long exhibition grind and the arduous conditioning processes, virtually completed. The hopes of a vast majority of recruits, inevitably, have been blasted and they are on their way back to more or less obscurity; veterans are rounding into shape and following the national pastime are taking stock of the chances of their favorites in what promises to be among the most keenly contested races in recent years.

Today, many of the big league outfits will be on their home grounds for final tuning up. Next Tuesday, the American league will inaugurate its 24th season and the National league, close to the half century mark, will open its 49th.

"Will New York Teams Repeat?"

Wherever fans gather, the "dopesters" are discussing the question that looms biggest on the diamond horizon—will the New York Giants and Yankees repeat? Doubtless of the last three seasons (after from metropolitan flag-bearers) and among these "dopesters" there is a majority opinion that McGraw and Huggins will make it four straight, a feat which would find no parallel in American or National league history.

Seven times in the National league and twice in the American, including the latest New York triumphs, clubs have gathered three victories in a row, but that mark never has been surpassed. Back in the "good old days," Boston won four straight games in the National association from 1892 to 1895, while St. Louis duplicated this achievement, from 1885 to 1889, in the American association, but these were under so-called organized baseball.

But even these records are being eclipsed by the New York Yankees, who have won four straight games in the American league, including the latest New York triumphs, clubs have gathered three victories in a row, but that mark never has been surpassed. Back in the "good old days," Boston won four straight games in the National association from 1892 to 1895, while St. Louis duplicated this achievement, from 1885 to 1889, in the American association, but these were under so-called organized baseball.

Tigers and Indians Strong

Ty Cobb's Detroit Tigers, somewhat of a disappointment in 1923, appear stronger in the home and abroad second year than a year ago, and with Tris Speaker's Cleveland Indians, a hard-hitting, experienced machine, loom as the Huggins' most dangerous rivals. Philadelphia's Athletics and Boston Red Sox belong in the "dark horse" category. The Mackmen, greatly strengthened by several expensive recruits and with steady pitching, promise to get a lively race with the Red Sox.

After several seasons of floundering, appear rejuvenated under Leo Pohl's leadership, the addition of several capable veterans, and the acquisition of Shortstop Pudgy Lee, one of the spring's "finds."

The showing of the St. Louis Browns depends largely upon whether George Sisler, after a full season of absence from the game, is able to resume his brilliant form in the field and at bat, plus his managerial duties. Washington, under the guidance of a youthful new pilot, Walter Hearn, does not seem any stronger than last year, when the club finished fourth, but the Chicago White Sox, now under Frank Chance, figure to improve on their seventh place finish of 1923.

Giants Face Stiff Opposition

The Giants, partially rebuilt by McGraw after their stunning defeat in last year's world's series, have their hope on better pitching and the ability of several youngsters to come through. The Cincinnati Reds suffered a bitter blow in the death of their manager, Pat Moran, but with a better pitching staff in the league, and a veteran cast, they share with Pittsburgh another experienced, hard-hitting outfit with good twirling, the position of leading contenders.

The outstanding trio will be most closely pressed, experts believe, by the Chicago Cubs, who bank upon an excellent mound corps, the St. Louis Cardinals, with their formidable attack, and the Boston Braves, who also boast a brilliant and youthful hurling corps and have taken on new energy under the aggressive leadership of John Hanlon, erstwhile giant shortstop.

Brooklyn and the Phillies both have been strengthened but their chances of escaping second division depths are slim.

Chance Assumes Charge

CHICAGO, April 12.—Frank Chance, bronzed and healthy, today assumes delayed charge of the Chicago Americans, whose season opening game against the New York Giants is being Tuesday. The "Peerless Leader" arrived yesterday and gets his first slice of headlines in action today, in the first of a two game exhibition series with the New York Giants.

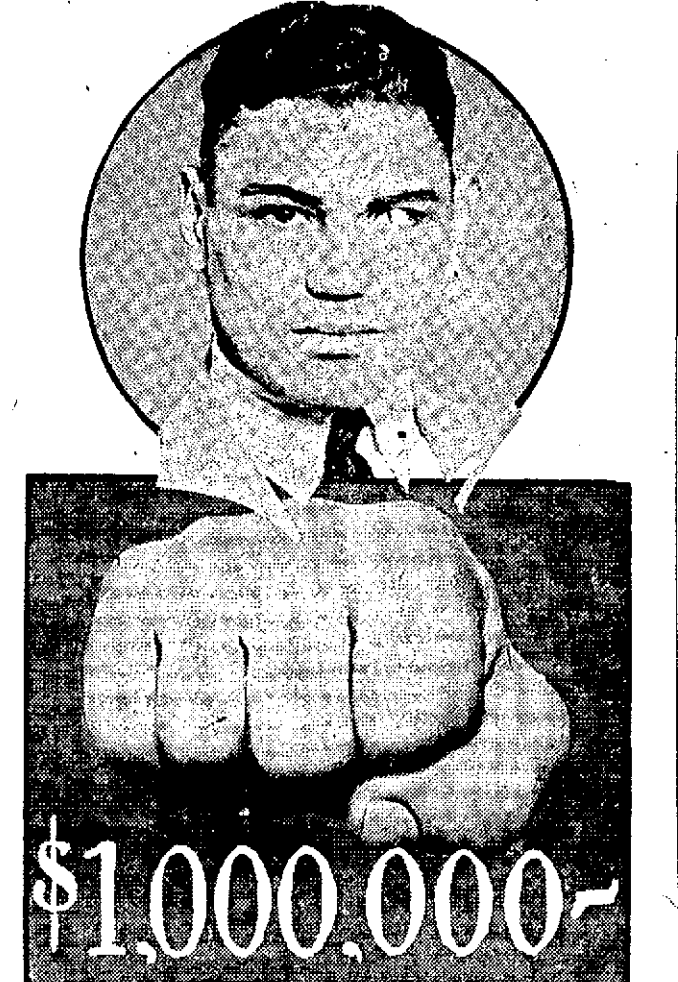

Chicago fans were hopeful the rain and snow of yesterday would not interfere with today's game and a rousing welcome for Chance and the team was planned for their first appearance of the year on the home lot.

"Sparky" Adams, shortstop of the Chicago Nationals, snatched victory from the Kansas City Blues yesterday with a triple in the tenth inning, the Cubs' third straight victory over the American association champions.

Braves Play at Washington

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The Boston Braves were the guests of the Washington Americans here today, to take part in the informal opening of the major league baseball season at the Senators' home grounds. Walter Johnson has the tentative hurling assignment for the Griffins. The barnstorming contest scheduled yesterday between the Braves and Senators at

Dempsey and the $1,000,000 Fight

RY JOE WILLIAMS

Sign this way, ladies and gents, and gaze upon the world's first million-dollar fist, the property of John Harrison Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the prize ring.

Please note that aside from his rather robust dimensions and hard, leathery aspect, this fist is not an unusual specimen.

You have seen larger fists on screen and from workers. Now that you recall it, the butcher's fist that wields the cleaver at the corner store is certainly more terrifying.

And you here is a fist—this one of Dempsey's—that is a real fighter at knuckles above all the fists in the history of the world. For it is the first fist that ever earned a million dollars.

What Other Fists Drew Down

There have been other remarkable fists in the past. The hand-like fist of the great John L. which broke the line of champions of man-fighting in America; the bone-crushing fist of old Fitzsimmons, the high-speed-gear, flat of Corbett and the rock-ribbed fist of the primitive Jeffries.

But none of these fists had more than an elementary training in the art of money-making, and they were handicapped further by having fourished in the days of measure prices. Already the Dempsey fist has made almost twice as much as all the other heavyweight champions combined.

Sullivan and Corbett fought for a purse of $25,000. Corbett and Fitz fought Jim Hall for $40,000 in 1893, the largest purse offered up to that time. Offered is a better word than paid, for

when Fitz went to collect the check was worthless.

Jeffries got $10,000 and a bonus of $10,000 for coming out of retirement to battle Johnson. The purse was paid $30,000 when he lost to Jess Willard at Havana. Willard, in turn, drew a fat sum of $100,000 for fighting Dempsey at Toledo.

First Million Dollar Purse

Dempsey will demand $750,000 for a return date with Fitz and a cool million for a Wilks bout, and the probabilities are he will get what he demands. Dempsey's bout with Wilks will draw a big crowd.

The million-dollar fist is on the march. It is already bringing a million from the prize ring. It is now bringing him another million in the motion picture studios by virtue of a recent contract. Dempsey's future promise still another million or two.

The 29-year-old champion has a chance to run his bank balance up to five million before he quits, or is knocked off.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Maples will meet the Strong Cardinals on April 19th. Last year the Cardinals beat the Maples in the final round of the championship in their class. The Maples won 13 out of 21 games played. The Maples are ready to meet all comers at any time, and send challenges through this paper.

The Taylor A.C. Juniors are ready to take the field in the amateur ranks this season and are out to meet all comers. They would like to hear from McAleer who played with them last year, along with Burns, Comer, Hines, Shinnery, Tully, Lator and McNeely.

The Walker A.C. is looking for games with 11-12-year-old teams. The 6th grade team of the Washington school preferred. Call 6887-W and ask for James, between the hour of 4 and 6 p.m.

The following Orioles are requested to report for practice every evening next week at hunting park. E. Allen, Genderson, L. Mason, Mahoney, McNeill, Shinnery, Smith, Walker, Watson, Worthen and Slavin. H. Manning is acting manager.

The Elks would like to hear from the Mohawks as soon as possible. The Elks played the American Juniors at Elks park this morning. Games are wanted with 11-13-year-old teams. Answer through this paper.

The Emeralds challenge the Maples for a game to be played April 19, in the North common. They also challenge the Pawtucket, Grand A.C. Cardinals, Buckhorns. If challenges are accepted call 6232-R, between six and seven o'clock and ask for Gauthier. The Emeralds would like to know why the Buffaloes are ducking them.

The Wigan A.C. challenges the Marlon A.C. for a game April 19, in the North common. Wigan A.C. lineup is as follows: D. Strick, C. Duffness, P. Stacy, 1st base; Duprez, 2nd; Gauthier, 2nd base; Beauregard, 3rd base; Sutherland, 3rd; Murphy, 4th; Johnson, 5th. If challenge is accepted, call 6232-M and ask for Benny.

The Emeralds accept the challenge of the Harvard A.C. for a game Saturday on the North common at 4 o'clock.

The Washingtons defeated the Lunatics Friday last by a score of 20 to 0. The winners would like to play any sixth grade team in the city. Answer through this paper.

If the St. Patrick's would like a game with the Notre Dame de Lourdes team, their manager is asked to challenge through this paper.

The Troquise seconds have reorganized for the season and would like to hear from 12-14-year-old teams. (Watch North has made an auspicious start and hopes to have a snappy team this coming season. Games may be arranged through this paper.

HAMBONE KELLEY WINS

Breaks Left Hand But Manages to Stop Larsen in Sixth Round

Bitter Rivals in Terrific Battle—Larsen Collapsed on Way to Dressing Room

BOSTON, April 12.—Hambone Kelley's mighty left prevailed over Wolf Larsen, the rugged longshoreman boxer, last night, forcing the latter to stop in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round number. The pair battled in Mechanics building in the principal number of the Cosmopolitan A. C. card. And what a fight it was.

From the opening count until the sixth there was action. Then the Wolf standing on his feet up against the ropes with his arms outstretched, practically admitted he was done.

Larsen, a game lad, walked to his corner, but after getting a touch of ropes on his way to the dressing room he collapsed in his manager's arms and had to be carried the rest of the way.

The victor, sitting in his corner, knew he had been in a fight. Kelley was pretty near the finish himself. The South Boston man was writhing in pain from a broken hand, his face white around the bright red welts told their own story.

Billy Evans SAYS

Coincidentally with the start of the baseball season, the major league scout will dust off his gunshoes and start on his annual ivory hunting expedition.

The baseball scout has become one of the most valuable assets of a big league ball club. On the success of a baseball scout hinges the success of a club.

In these days of high tension baseball and close races, the scouts are compelled to work fast and often use snap judgment.

That is perhaps one reason why some players, who look anything but promising material, get a chance. The snap judgment of the scouts has resulted in his kicking one.

The baseball scouts are of different types. There are some who think to earn their salary they must dig up a lot of recruits. Others who work on the theory they are saving their employer a lot of money by keeping him away from the recruits who have little more than an outside chance.

I know one major league scout who in years of service didn't send over a dozen players to the club that employed him. A majority of these made good.

Just what a tough proposition a big league scout is up against was proved to me in a recent conversation with one of the best ivory hunters in the American league.

The scout had been detailed to watch a certain player in the South Michigan league. This organization is now known as the Michigan-Ontario league. The player in question was with the Jackson (Mich.) club.

It seems Saginaw, Mich., was the opposing club and to the best of the scout's recollection, Robbins was the pitcher for that team.

Robbins shut out the Jackson team without a hit. The player the scout came to watch was an easy victim for Robbins' curves.

Instead of resting on his glory, Robbins came back the next day and again pitched a shutout game in which not a hit was made. He struck out 14, the scout was watching fanning three times.

The scout was convinced the outfielder who had been recommended to him wasn't ready, but he was up in the air about this fellow who was good enough to pitch two no-hit games in succession.

"Snap judgment told me to sign the pitcher on the strength of those two no-hit games. Only the fact that a fancy price was asked caused me to pitch up the proposition," explained the scout.

"I didn't like the pitching motion of Robbins, and I could see that he was a bad felder. However, he had been averaging a strikeout an inning for about 20 games."

"I finally decided I didn't want the pitcher or outfielder and went on my way, but not without considerable misgivings for fear I had pulled a bone."

BASKETBALL GAMES

The Y.M.H.A. will wind up their most successful basketball season next week in two hard games playing the Lowell Boys' club Tuesday and the Athenians Thursday of the Y.M.C.A. As these games are city league games, the Juniors will not risk the Junior amateur title which they proudly possess by virtue of their defeat of the Lowell Boys' club.

The Juniors have lost a valuable man in Arthur Kotzen, crack centre, who has been loaned to the Juniors for the season. Kotzen's place for the final two games, the Lowell Boys' club Tuesday and the Athenians Thursday, is expected back in the Junior lineup.

CITY LEAGUE BASKETBALL

Both the Eagles and Athenians are now able to play on Saturday evenings and have asked that their games with the Trojans and Celtics be postponed. The Trojan-Eagle game for April 17th, and the Athenian-Celtics game for April 22nd. There will be no games this Saturday evening.

Next Tuesday the Boys' club plays the Y.M.H.A. and the Eagles play the Juniors.

SPALLA ON WAY TO U. S.

MONTREAL, Canada, April 12.—Rendulo Spalla, European heavyweight champion, who is a passenger aboard the Lowell Boy's club Tuesday and Wednesday, told the newspapermen here that he had signed engagements with Tex Rickard, American promoter, to meet Floyd Johnson and Quintin Romero-Rojas, while in the United States.

LOWELL HIGH FORTUNATE IN ITS DRAWING FOR POSITIONS IN PENN RELAY CARNIVAL

Lowell high school has been most fortunate in the drawings for position in the one-mile and medley relays at the Pennsylvania relay carnival at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, April 25 and 26. Number 3 position has been assigned to Lowell in the mile event and in the medley the school drew the pole place. Beginners' luck!

Medford and Newton are drawn to start from seventh and eighth positions in the high school mile. In the medley other notable teams drew positions as follows: Hamilton Institute, fourth; Mercersburg sixth; Huntington, seventh; Medford high school, ninth; Exeter, 17th.

The six relay runners picked to make the trip from Lowell went to Andover this forenoon for a stiff workout on the academy track. They will be on the track every afternoon next week.

World's Greatest Aerial Gymnast

These exercises aren't suggested merely for those who think they are too fat and want to reduce. They are not meant for persons who want to become professional acrobats.

"They are meant for every man, woman and child who wants to be healthy. Properly applied they will make for health, beauty and longevity. They will make for red cheeks and healthy color from the inside, not from the outside."

No matter what you do, do it as an exercise. Be it walking to the store, do it with swank and swing. Shoulders back, head up, chin in. Be it sweeping, do it with shoulders back, head erect and strong swing. Be it hanging on a strap in a crowded street or subway car pull up on it, as I do on my rings in the gym.

Little children it is necessary to get the proper exercise. Jumping the rope, climbing, throwing a basketball and punching the bag, strengthen the muscles and develop circulation and grace. It is the spirit that counts, not the trimmings.

My mother is past 57. Yet she is lithe and graceful enough to do her turn in the circus. Her health is perfect. Her secret? Exercise.

No strict rules of abstinence need be laid down. If perchance you like smoking, smoke, but not to excess. Don't let the faddist worry you. Act as you please, healthfully and with vim and you'll never have to worry about dieting, daily dozens or any of the other bans which make so many persons' lives miserable.

Australia was sunk today, 20 miles off Sydney, in accordance with the naval program under the Washington treaty. Laden with hundreds of floral tributes from the populace, the warship was towed to the scuttling point by tugs, accompanied by two Australian and five British cruisers with officials aboard. There her sea valves were opened and she slowly settled beneath the water, while the cruisers fired salutes and airplanes circled overhead.

QUEEN ANNE PERIOD FURNITURE

Beginning of the 17th century introduced a complete change from the English Renaissance. More graceful, curved lines mark this period. Chairs, formerly stiff and uncomfortable, at this time, upholstering is used. Curved splat-back chair is a characteristic. Curved cabriole legs with a carved shell-like knee and animal's paw grasping a ball at the foot, is another. The card table of walnut, above, is typical. Part of the William and Mary influence carried over into this period, which predominated to the end of the reign of George II, in 1760.

won out every time. As a result, last moment changes were made: the body of the queen was placed with its head to the east. "So who will see us as we pass and can watch the rising of the sun?" insisted King John, when other arrangements had been made known to him. Whereupon the professional mourners began to chant a "swallow" (then called their loudest), the big brass band that had been brought over from Baltimore, played its loudest; and the crowd of gypsies rocked back and forth, gesticulating and jubilation. A police guard of fair size was quickly augmented from a nearby station, and after some hours, delay the burial was completed according to the prescribed rites of the tribe. During the ceremony a bottle of sacramental wine was broken over grave; King John, who took his stand at the head of the grave as the masket was lowered took from an attendant, a little metal box of incense, which, burned slowly at the altar, found its place in the heavy shroud which was then placed on top and cemented into place; then a last long wall went up from the mourners—the crowd of gypsies, most of whom were in native costume, sang a requiem with wild gypsy abandon and the dead queen was left in sleep her 35000000 sleep. Presidential Candidates

There is no change in the presidential political situation so far as Washington comment goes. The republican nomination seems assured to President Coolidge, with his running mate to be picked by him when the proper time comes. It is expected a man from the far or the middle west, of progressive ideas, will be selected. In order to give balance to the ticket and win for the republicans, votes that might otherwise go to the third party if one is formed.

The democrats have a wide field to select from for the top of the ticket and the second place. They, too, will determine the vice presi-

JUDGES OF SQUAD AND INDIVIDUAL DRILLS

The tenth annual drill night and gymnastic exhibition of the boys of the high school in the annex last night was a most praiseworthy exemplification of what the school is doing along the line of physical education, both within and without the regiment. The drill shed was well filled with parents, friends and the program was such as to call forth unstinted applause from beginning to end. It was an excellent mixture of military tactics and gymnasium evolutions and stunts, with a little boxing thrown in for good measure and those who had it in charge should be perfectly satisfied with the results attained.

Much of the interest centered in the individual prize drill and the squad drill. The former event was put on in two sections and the prize winners were Sergt. Chester, Corp. Edward Allen and Sergt. Frank Powers. They were presented gold, silver and bronze medals by no defense.
